MEMORANDUM

MEMORANDUM FOR THE RECORD

DATE: 10-10-10

100-10000

To the RIGHT HONOURABLE the EARL of MIDDLESEX.

My LORD,

THE Critics will, undoubtedly, expect, when they see your Name prefixed to this Volume, that I should address your Lordship, as the Judge of Science, and the hereditary Patron of learned Men; but I shall take the Liberty of disappointing them, having, as I presume, a stronger and more natural Claim to your Protection from a lucky Accident, than from any real Excellence I can pretend to, either as a Writer or a Scholar.

This lucky Accident, my Lord, is the Honour (I had almost said Merit) of being born within a few Miles of your Lordship; and tho' I have too much Diffidence to ask your Patronage tronage as a Poet, I have Assurance enough to demand it as a Man of Kent.

DEDICATION.

I shall not imitate, in this Dedication (if such an homely Epistle may aspire to so polite a Name) the Conduct of most modern Authors, who are always particularly fulsome, at the very Time they, with the utmost Solemnity, protest against Flattery-----What I sincerely believe of you I have said already, and you will find it in the introductory Ode on Good-nature, which I beg Leave, in an especial Manner, not only to inscribe, but to apply to the Earl of Middlesex.

I am,

my Lord,

with the utmost Respect,

Your Lordship's most obedient,

and most obliged humble Servant,

CHRISTOPHER SMART.

TYPOGRAPHUS;

THE
INTRODUCTION.
BEING TWO ODES.

The former on

Good-Nature, the latter against Ill-Nature.

ON GOOD-NATURE.

I.

HAIL cherub of the highest Heav'n,
Of look divine, and temper ev'n,
Celestial sweetness, exquisite of mien,
Of ev'ry virtue, ev'ry praise the queen!

II.

Soft gracefulness, and blooming youth,
Where, grafted on the stem of truth;
That friendship reigns, no interest can divide,
And great humility looks down on pride.

III.

Oh! curse on Slander's vip'rous tongue,
That daily dares thy merit wrong;
Ideots usurp thy title, and thy frame,
Without or virtue, talent, taste, or name.

B

IV. Is

IV.

Is apathy, is heart of steel,
 Nor ear to hear, nor sense to feel,
 Life idly inoffensive such a grace,
 That it shou'd steal thy name and take thy place?

V.

No---thou art active---spirit all---
 Swifter than light'ning, at the call
 Of injur'd innocence, or griev'd desert,
 And large with liberality's thy heart.

VI.

Thy appetites in easy tides
 (As reason's luminary guides)
 Soft flow---no wind can work them to a storm,
 Correctly quick, dispassionately warm.

VII.

Yet if a transport thou canst feel
 'Tis only for thy neighbours weal :
 Great, generous acts thy ductile passions move,
 And smilingly thou weep'st with joy and love.

VIII.

Mild is thy mind to cover shame,
 Averse to envy, slow to blame,
 Bursting to praise, yet still sincere and free
 From flatt'ry's fawning tongue, and bending knee:

IX. Extensive,

IX.

Extensive, as from west to east,
Thy love descends from man to beast,
Nought is excluded little, or infirm,
Thou canst with greatness stoop to save a worm.

Come, goddess, come with all thy charms
For Oh! I love thee, to my arms—
All, all my actions guide, my fancy feed,
So shall existence then be life indeed.

I.

O FSPRING of folly and of pride,
 To all that's odious, all that's base allied;
 Nurs'd up by vice, by pravity misled,
 By pedant affectation taught and bred;
 Away, thou hideous hell-born spright,
 Go, with thy looks of dark design,
 Sullen, sour, and saturnine;
 Fly to some gloomy shade, nor blot the goodly light.
 Thy planet was remote, when I was born;
 'Twas Mercury that rul'd my natal morn,
 What time the sun exerts his genial ray,
 And ripens for enjoyment every growing day;
 When to exist is but to love and sing,
 And sprightly Aries smiles upon the spring.

II.

There in yon lonesome heath,
 Which Flora, or Sylvanus never knew,
 Where never vegetable drank the dew,
 Or beast, or fowl attempts to breathe;
 Where Nature's pencil has no colours laid;
 But all is blank, and universal shade;
 Contrast to figure, motion, life and light,
 There may'st thou vent thy spight,
 For ever cursing, and for ever curs'd,
 Of all th' infernal crew the worst;

The

The worst in genius, measure and degree;
For envy, hatred, malice, are but parts of thee.

III.

Or woud'st thou change the scene, and quit thy den,
Behold the heav'n-deserted fen,
Where spleen, by vapours dense begot and bred,
Hardness of heart, and heaviness of head,
Have rais'd their darksome walls, and plac'd their thorny bed;

There may'st thou all thy bitterness unload,
There may'st thou croak, in concert with the toad,
With thee the hollow howling winds shall join,
Nor shall the bittern her base throat deny,
The querulous frogs shall mix their dirge with thine,
Th' ear-piercing hern, and plover screaming high,
While million humming gnats fit æstrum shall supply.

IV.

Away---away---behold an hideous band
An herd of all thy minions are at hand,
Suspicion first with jealous caution stalks,
And ever looks around her as she walks,
With bibulous ear imperfect sounds to catch,
And prompt to listen at her neighbours latch.
Next Scandal's meagre shade,
Foe to the virgins, and the poet's fame,
A wither'd, time-deflow'ed old maid,
That ne'er enjoy'd love's ever sacred flame.

Hypocrisy succeeds with saint-like look,
And elevates her hands and plods upon her book.
Next comes illiberal scrambling Avarice,
Then Vanity and Affectation nice—
See, she salutes her shadow with a bow
As in short Gallic trips she minces by,
Starting antipathy is in her eye,
And squeamishly she knits her scornful brow.
To thee, Ill-Nature, all the numerous group
With lowly reverence stoop—
They wait thy call, and mourn thy long delay,
Away—thou art infectious—haste away.

A MORNING PIECE,
O R,
An HYMN for the HAY-MAKERS.

O D E I.

*Quinetiam Gallum noctem explaudentibus als
Auroram clarâ consuetum voce vocare.*

LUCRET.

BRISK chaunticleer his mattins had begun,
And broke the silence of the night,
And thrice he call'd aloud the tardy sun,
And thrice he hail'd the dawn's ambiguous light;
Back to their graves the fear-begotten phantoms run.
Strong Labour got up with his pipe in his mouth,
And stoutly strode over the dale,
He lent new perfumes to breath of the south,
On his back hung his wallet and flail.
Behind him came Health from her cottage of thatch,
Where never physician had lifted the latch.

First

First of the village Colin was awake,
And thus he sung, reclining on his rake.

Now the rural graces three
Dance beneath yon maple tree;
First the vestal Virtue, known
By her adamant zone;
Next to her in rosy pride,
Sweet Society, the bride;
Last Honesty, full seemly drest
In her cleanly home-spun vest.

The abby bells in wak'ning rounds
The warning peal have giv'n;
And pious Gratitude resounds
Her morning hymn to heav'n.

All nature wakes---the birds unlock their throats,
And mock the shepherd's rustic notes.

All alive o'er the lawn,
Full glad of the dawn,
The little lambkins play,
Sylvia and Sol arise,---and all is day---

Come, my mates, let us work,
And all hands to the fork,
While the Sun shines, our Hay-cocks to make,
So fine is the Day,
And so fragrant the Hay,
That the Meadow's as blithe as the Wake.

Our

Our voices let's raise
 In Phœbus's praise,
 Inspir'd by so glorious a theme,
 Our musical words
 Shall be join'd by the birds,
 And we'll dance to the tune of the stream.

O D E II.

Jam pastor umbras cum grege languido,
 Rivumque fessus quærit, & horridi
 Dumeta Silvani, caretque
 Ripa vagis taciturna ventus.

HOR.

THE Sun is now too radiant to behold,
 And vehement he sheds his liquid Rays of Gold ;
 No cloud appears thro' all the wide expanse ;
 And short, but yet distinct and clear,
 To the wanton whistling air
 The mimic shadows dance.

C

Fat

Fat Mirth, and Gallantry the gay,
 And romping Extasy 'gin play.
 Now Myriads of young Cupids rise,
 And open all their joy-bright eyes,
 Filling with infant prate the grove,
 And lip in sweetly-fault'ring love.
 In the middle of the ring,
 Mad with May, and wild of wing,
 Fire-ey'd Wantonness shall sing.

By the rivulet on the rushes,
 Beneath a canopy of bushes,
 Where the ever-faithful Tray,
 Guards the dumplings and the whey,
 Colin Clout and Yorkshire Will
 From the leathern bottle swill.

Their scythes upon the adverse bank
 Glitter 'mongst th' entangled trees,
 Where the hazles form a rank,
 And court'fy to the courting breeze.

Ah ! Harriot ! sovereign mistress of my heart,
 Could I thee to these meads decoy,
 New grace to each fair object thou'dst impart,
 And heighten ev'ry scene to perfect joy.

On

On a bank of fragrant thyme,
Beneath yon stately, shadowy pine,
We'll with the well-disguised hook
Cheat the tenants of the brook ;
Or where coy Daphne's thickest shade
Drives amorous Phœbus from the glade,
There read Sydney's high-wrought stories
Of ladies charms and heroes glories ;
Thence fir'd, the sweet narration act,
And kiss the fiction into fact.

Or satiate with nature's random scenes,
Let's to the gardens regulated greens,
Where taste and elegance command
Art to lend her dædal hand,
Where Flora's flock, by nature wild,
To discipline are reconcil'd,
And laws and order cultivate,
Quite civiliz'd into a state.

From the sun, and from the show'r,
Haste we to yon boxen bow'r,
Secluded from the teizing pry
Of Argus' curiosity :
There, while Phœbus' golden mean,
The gay meridian is seen,
Ere decays the lamp of light,
And length'ning shades stretch out to night----

Seize, seize the hint--each hour improve
 (This is morality in love)
 Lend, lend thine hand--O let me view
 Thy parting breasts, sweet avenue !
 Then---then thy lips, the coral cell
 Where all th' ambrosial kisses dwell !
 Thus we'll each fultry noon employ
 In day-dreams of extatic joy.

HOR.

TWAS when bright Cynthia with her silver car,
 Soft stealing from Endymion's bed,
 Had call'd forth ev'ry glitt'ring star,
 And up th' ascent of heav'n her brilliant host had led.

Night, with all her negro train,
 Took possession of the plain ;

In

In an hearſe ſhe rode reclin'd,
Drawn by ſcreech-owls ſlow and blind :
Cloſe to her, with printleſs feet,
Crept Stillneſs, in a winding ſheet.
Next to her deaf Silence was ſeen,
Treading on tip-toes over the green ;
Softly, lightly, gently ſhe trips,
Still holding her fingers ſeal'd to her lips.

You could not ſee a fight,
You could not hear a ſound,
But what confeſs'd the night,
And horror deepen'd round.

Beneath a myrtle's melancholy ſhade,
Sophron the wiſe was laid :
And to the anſw'ring wood theſe ſounds convey'd :
While others toil within the town,
And to Fortune ſmile or frown,
Fond of trifles, fond of toys,
And married to that woman, Noiſe ;
Sacred Wiſdom be my care,
And faireſt Virtue, Wiſdom's heir.

His ſpeculations thus the ſage begun,
When, lo! the neighbouring bell
In ſolemn ſound ſtruck one :---
He ſtarts---and recollects---he was engag'd to Nell.
Then

Then up he sprang nimble and light,
 And rapp'd at fair Ele'nor's door ;
 He laid aside virtue that night,
 And next morn por'd in Plato for more.

On the sudden Death of a CLERGYMAN.

O D E IV.

IF, like th' Orphean lyre, my song could charm,
 And light to life the ashes in the urn,
 Fate of his iron dart I would disarm,
 Sudden as thy decease should'st thou return,
 Recall'd with mandates of despotic sounds,
 And arbitrary grief, that will not hear of bounds.
 But, ah! such wishes, artless muse, forbear ;
 'Tis impotence of frantic love,
 Th' enthusiast's flight of wild despair,
 To hope the Thracian's magic power to prove.
 Alas! thy slender vein,
 Nor mighty is to move, nor forgetive to feign,
 Impatient of a rein,
 Thou canst not in due bounds the struggling measures keep,
 ---But thou, alas! canst weep---
 Thou canst---and o'er the melancholy bier
 Canst lend the sad solemnity a tear.
 Hail! to that wretched corse, untenanted and cold,
 And hail the peaceful shade loos'd from its irksome hold.

Now

Now let me say thou'rt free,
For sure thou paid'st an heavy tax for life,
While combating for thee,
Nature and mortality
Maintain'd a daily strife.
High, on a slender thread thy vital lamp was plac'd,
Upon the mountain's bleakest brow,
To give a nobler light superior was it rais'd,
But more expos'd by eminence it blaz'd;
For not a whistling wind that blew,
Nor the drop-descending dew,
Nor a bat that idly flew,
But half extinguish'd its fair flame---but now
See---hear the storms tempestuous sweep---
Precipitate it falls---it falls---falls lifeless in the deep.
Cease, cease, ye weeping youth,
Sincerity's soft sighs, and all the tears of truth.
And you, his kindred throng, forbear
Marble memorials to prepare,
And sculptur'd in your breasts his busto wear.
'Twas thus when Israel's legislator dy'd,
No fragile mortal honours were supply'd,
But even a grave denied.
Better than what the pencil's daub can give,
Better than all that Phidias ever wrought,
Is this---that what he taught shall live,
And what he liv'd for ever shall be taught.

On the Fifth of December, being the Birth-day of a beautiful young Lady.

O D E V.

I.

HA I L, eldest of the monthly train,
Sire of the winter drear,
December, in whose iron reign
Expires the chequer'd Year.
Hush all the blust'ring blasts that blow,
And proudly plum'd in silver snow,
Smile gladly on this blest of Days.
The livery'd clouds shall on thee wait,
And Phœbus shine in all his state
With more than summer rays.

II.

Tho' jocund June may justly boast
Long days and happy hours,
Tho' August be Pomona's host,
And May be crown'd with flow'rs;
Tell June, his fire and crimson dies,
By Harriot's blush and Harriot's eyes,
Eclips'd and vanquish'd, fade away:
Tell August, thou canst let him see
A richer, riper fruit than he,
A sweeter flow'r than May.

The

The PRETTY CHAMBERMAID :

In Imitation of Ne sit Ancillæ tibi amor pudori, &c.
of Horace.

O D E VI.

I.

COLIN, oh! cease thy friend to blame,
Who entertains a servile flame.
Chide not—believe me, 'tis no more
Than great Achilles did before,
Who nobler, prouder far than he is,
Ador'd his chambermaid Briseis.

II.

The thund'ring Ajax Venus lays
In love's inextricable maze:
His slave Temessa makes him yield,
Now mistress of the sevenfold shield.
Atrides with his captive play'd,
Who always shar'd the bed she made.

III.

'Twas at the ten years siege, when all
The Trojans fell in Hector's fall,
When Helen rul'd the day and night,
And made them love, and made them fight:

D

Each

Each hero kiss'd his maid, and why,
Tho' I'm no hero, may not I?

IV.

Who knows? Perhaps Polly may be
A piece of ruin'd royalty.
She has (I cannot doubt it) been
The daughter of some mighty queen;
But fate's irremediable doom
Has chang'd her sceptre for a broom.

V.

Ah! cease to think it—how can she,
So generous, charming, fond, and free,
So lib'ral of her little store,
So heedless of amassing more,
Have one drop of plebeian blood,
In all the circulating flood?

VI.

But you, by carping at my fire,
Do but betray your own desire—
Howe'er proceed—made tame by years,
You'll raise in me no jealous fears.
You've not one spark of love alive,
For, thanks to heav'n, you're forty-five.

I D L E N E S S.

O D E VII.

GOddeſs of eaſe, leave Lethe's brink,
 Obſequious to the Muſe and me;
 For once endure the pain to think,
 Oh! ſweet inſenſibility!

Siſter of peace and indolence,
 Bring, Muſe, bring numbers ſoft and flow,
 Elaborately void of ſenſe,
 And ſweetly thoughtleſs let them flow.

Near ſome cowſlip-painted mead,
 There let me doze out the dull hours,
 And under me let Flora ſpread,
 A ſoſa of her ſoſteſt flow'rs.

Where, Philomel, your notes you breathe
 Forth from behind the neighbouring pine,
 And murmurs of the ſtream beneath
 Still flow in uniſon with thine.

For thee, O Idleneſs, the woes
 Of life we patiently endure,
 Thou art the ſource whence labour flows,
 We ſhun thee but to make thee ſure.

For who'd sustain war's toil and waste,
 Or who th' hoarse thund'ring of the sea,
 But to be idle at the last,
 And find a pleasing end in thee.

To the reverend and learned Dr. WEBSTER,
 Occasioned by his Dialogues on ANGER and FORGIVENESS.

O D E V III.

I.

T WAS when th' omniscient creative pow'r
 Display'd his wonders by a mortal's hand,
 And, delegated at th' appointed hour,
 Great Moses led away his chosen band;
 When Israel's host, with all their stores,
 Past thro' the ruby-tinctur'd crystal shores,
 The wilderness of waters and of land:
 Then persecution rag'd in heav'n's own cause,
 And right on neighbouring kingdoms to infringe,
 Strict justice for the breach of nature's laws,
 Strict justice, who's full-sister to revenge:
 The legislator held the scythe of fate,
 Where'er his legions chanc'd to stray,
 Death and destruction mark'd their bloody way;
 Immoderate was their rage, for mortal was their hate.

II.

II.

But when the king of righteousness arose,
 And on the illumin'd East serenely smil'd,
 He shone with meekest mercy on his foes,
 Bright as the sun, but as the moon-beams mild;
 From anger, fell revenge, and discord free,
 He bad war's hellish clangor cease,
 In pastoral simplicity and peace,
 And shew'd to men that face, which Moses could not see.

III.

Well hast thou, WEBSTER, pictur'd christian love,
 And copied our great master's fair design,
 But livid Envy would the light remove,
 Or croud thy portrait in a nook malign---
 The Muse shall hold it up to popular view---
 Where the more candid and judicious few
 Shall think the bright original they see,
 The likeness nobly lost in the identity.

IV.

Oh hadst thou liv'd in better days than these,
 E'er to excel by all was deem'd a shame!
 Alas! thou hast no modern arts to please,
 And to deserve is all thy empty claim.
 Else thou'dst been plac'd, by learning, and by wit,
 There, where thy dignify'd inferiors sit---

Oh!

Oh they are in their generation wise,
 Each path of interest they have sagely trod,—
 To live---to thrive---to rise---and still to rise---
 Better to bow to men, than kneel to God.

V.

Behold!--where poor unmanfion'd Merit stands,
 All cold; and cramp't with penury and pain;
 Speechless thro' want, she rears th' imploring hands,
 And begs a little bread, but begs in vain;
 While Bribery and Dulness, passing by,
 Bid her, in sounds barbarian, starve and die.

“ Away (they cry (we never saw thy name)

“ Or in Preferment's List, or that of Fame;

“ Away--nor here the fate thou earn'st bewail,

“ Who canst not buy a vote, nor hast a soul for sale.

VI.

Oh Indignation, wherefore wert thou given,
 If drowsy Patience deaden all thy rage?—
 Yet we must bear--such is the will of heaven;
 And, WEBSTER, so prescribes thy candid page.
 Then let us hear thee preach seraphic love,
 Guide our disgust'd thoughts to things above;
 So our free souls, fed with divine repast,
 (Unmindful of low mortals mean employ)
 Shall taste the present, recollect the past,
 And strongly hope for every future joy.

O D E IX.

The Author apologizes to a Lady, for his being a little man.

Natura nusquam magis, quam in minimis tota est. PLIN.

Ολιγον τι φιλον τι. HOM.

I.

YES, contumelious fair, you scorn:
The amorous dwarf, that courts you to his arms,
But ere you leave him quite forlorn,
And to some youth gigantic yield your charms,
Hear him—oh hear him, if you will not try,
And let your judgment check th' ambition of your eye.

II.

Say, is it carnage makes the man?
Is to be monstrous really to be great?
Say, is it wise or just to scan
Your lover's worth by quantity, or weight?
Ask your mamma and nurse, if it be so;
Nurse and mamma, I ween, shall jointly answer, no.

III.

The less the body to the view;
The soul (like springs in closer durance pent):
Is all exertion, ever new,
Unceasing, unextinguish'd, and unspent;
Still pouring forth executive desire,
As bright, as brisk, and lasting, as the vestal fire.

IV.

Does thy young bosom pant for fame ;
 Woud'st thou be of posterity the toast ?
 The poets shall ensure thy name,
 Who magnitude of mind not body boast.
 Laurels on bulky bards as rarely grow,
 As on the sturdy oak the virtuous mistletoe.

V.

Look in the glass, survey that cheek—
 Where FLORA has with all her roses blush'd ;
 The shape so tender,—looks so meek,—
 The breasts made to be press'd, not to be crush'd—
 Then turn to me,—turn with obliging eyes,
 Nor longer Nature's works, in miniature, despise.

VI.

Young AMMON did the world subdue,
 Yet had not more external man than I ;
 Ah! charmer, should I conquer you,
 With him in fame, as well as size, I'll vie.
 Then, scornful nymph, come forth to yonder grove,
 Where I defy, and challenge, all thy utmost love.

On Miss * * * *.

O D E X.

I.

LONG, with undistinguish'd flame,
 I lov'd each fair, each witty dame,
 My heart the belle-assembly gain'd,
 And all an equal sway maintain'd.

II.

But when you came, you stood confess'd
 Sole sultana of my breast ;
 For you eclips'd, supremely fair,
 All the whole seraglio there.

III.

In this her mien, in that her grace,
 In a third I lov'd a face ;
 But you in ev'ry feature shine
 Universally divine.

IV.

What can those tumid paps excel,
 Do they sink, or do they swell ?
 While those lovely wanton eyes
 Sparkling meet them, as they rise.

V.

Thus is silver Cynthia seen,
 Glistening o'er the glassy green,

E

While

While attracted swell the waves,
Emerging from their inmost caves.

VI.

When to sweet sounds your steps you suit,
And weave the minuet to the lute,
Heav'ns! how you glide!—her neck—her chest—
Does she move, or does she rest?

VII.

As those roguish eyes advance,
Let me catch their side-long glance,
Soon---or they'll elude my sight,
Quick as light'ning, and as bright.

VIII.

Thus the bashful Pleiad cheats
The gazer's eye, and still retreats,
Then peeps agen---then skulks unseen,
Veil'd behind the azure screen.

IX.

Like the ever-toying dove,
Smile immensity of love;
Be Venus in each outward part,
And wear the vestal in your heart.

X.

When I ask a kiss, or so---
Grant it with a begging no,
And let each rose that decks your face
Blush assent to my embrace.

E P I T H A L A M I U M.

O D E XI.

I.

Descend, descend, ye sweet Aonian maids,
 Leave the Parnassian shades,
 The joyful Hymeneal sing,
 And to a lovelier Belle
 Than fiction e'er devis'd, or eloquence can tell,
 Your vocal tributes bring.
 And you, ye winged choristers, that fly
 In all the pensile gardens of the sky,
 Chant thro' th' enamel'd grove,
 Stretch from the trembling twigs your little throats,
 With all the wild variety of artless notes,
 But let each note be love.
 Fragrant Flora, queen of May,
 All bedight with garlands gay,
 Where in the smooth-shaven green
 The spangled cowslips variegate the scene,
 And the rivulet between,
 Whispers, murmurs, sings,
 As it stops, or falls, or springs ;
 There spread a sofa of thy softest flowers,
 There let the bridegroom stay,
 There let him hate the light, and curse the day,
 And dun the tardy hours.

II.

But see the bride---she comes with silent pace,
 Full of majesty and love ;
 Not with a nobler grace
 Look'd the imperial wife of Jove,
 When erst ineffably she shone
 In Venus' irresistible, enchanting zone.
 Phœbus, great god of verse, the nymph observe,
 Observe her well ;
 Then touch each sweetly-trem'lous nerve
 Of thy resounding shell :
 Her like huntress-Dian paint,
 Modest, but without restraint ;
 From Pallas take her decent pace,
 With Venus sweeten all her face,
 From the Zephyrs steal her sighs,
 From thyself her sun-bright eyes ;
 Then baffled, thou shalt see,
 That as did Daphne thee,
 Her charms thy genius' force shall fly,
 And by no soft persuasive sounds be brib'd
 To come within INVENTION's narrow eye ;
 But all indignant shun its grasp, and scorn to be describ'd

III.

Now see the bridegroom rise,
 Oh ! how impatient are his joys !
 Bring me zephyrs to depaint his voice,
 But light'ning for his eyes.

He

O D E S.

29

He leaps, he springs, he flies into her arms,
With joy intense,
Feeds ev'ry sense,
And sultanates o'er all her charms.
Oh! had I Virgil's comprehensive strain,
Or sung like Pope, without a word in vain,
Then should I hope my numbers might contain,
Egregious nymph, thy boundless happiness,
How arduous to express !
Such may it last to all eternity :
And may thy Lord with thee,
Like two coeval pines in Ida's grove,
That interweave their verdant arms in love,
Each mutual office chearfully perform,
And share alike the sunshine, and the storm ;
And ever, as you flourish hand in hand,
Both shade the shepherd and adorn the land,
Together with each growing year arise,
Indissolubly link'd, and climb at last the skies.

O D E XII.

I.

Happy verses! that were prest
In fair Ethelinda's breast!
Happy muse, that didst embrace
The sweet, the heav'nly-fragrant place!
Tell me, is the omen true,
Shall the bard arrive there too?

II.

Oft thro' my eyes my soul has flown,
And wanton'd on that ivory throne:
There with extatic transport burn'd,
And thought it was to heav'n return'd.
Tell me, is the omen true,
Shall the body follow too?

III.

When first at nature's early birth,
Heav'n sent a man upon the earth,
Ev'n Eden was more fruitful found,
When Adam came to till the ground:
Shall then those breasts be fair in vain,
And only rise to fall again?

IV.

IV.

No, no, fair nymph---for no such end
 Did heav'n to thee its bounty lend;
 That breast was ne'er design'd by fate,
 For verse, or things inanimate;
 Then throw them from that downy bed,
 And take the poet in their stead.

On an EAGLE confined in a College-Court.

O D E XIII.

Imperial bird, who wont to soar
 High o'er the rolling cloud,
 Where Hyperborean mountains hoar
 Their heads in Ether shroud;---
 Thou servant of almighty Jove,
 Who, free and swift as thought, could'st rove
 To the bleak north's extremest goal;---
 Thou, who magnanimous could'st bear
 The sovereign thund'rer's arms in air,
 And shake thy native pole!---

II.

Oh cruel fate! what barbarous hand,
 What more than Gothic ire,
 At some fierce tyrant's dread command,
 To check thy daring fire,

Has

Has plac'd thee in this servile cell,
 Where Discipline and Dulness dwell,
 Where Genius ne'er was seen to roam ;
 Where ev'ry selfish soul's at rest,
 Nor ever quits the carnal breast,
 But lurks and sneaks at home !

III.

Tho' dim'd thine eye, and clipt thy wing,
 So grov'ling ! once so great !
 The grief-inspired Muse shall sing
 In tend'rest lays thy fate.
 What time by thee scholastic Pride
 Takes his precise, pedantic stride,
 Nor on thy mis'ry casts a care,
 The stream of love ne'er from his heart
 Flows out, to act fair pity's part ;
 But stinks, and stagnates there.

IV.

Yet useful still, hold to the throng---
 Hold the reflecting glass,---
 That not untutor'd at thy wrong
 The passenger may pass:
 Thou type of wit and sense confin'd,
 Cramp'd by the oppressors of the mind,
 Who study downward on the ground ;
 Type of the fall of Greece and Rome ;
 While more than mathematic gloom,
 Envelopes all around !

MR. POPE'S Essay on CRITICISM.

ESSAY on CRITICISM.

'TIS hard to say, if greater want of skill
 Appear in writing, or in judging ill;
 But of the two, less dang'rous is th' offence
 To tire our patience, than mislead our sense.
 Some few in that, but numbers err in this, 5
 Ten censure wrong, for one who writes amiss.
 A fool might once himself alone expose,
 Now one in verse makes many more in prose.

'Tis with our judgments as our watches, none
 Go just alike, yet each believes his own.
 In poets as true genius is but rare,
 True taste as seldom is the critic's share;
 Both must alike from heav'n derive their light,
 These born to judge, as well as those to write.
 † Let such teach others who themselves excel, 15
 And censure freely who have written well.

† Qui scribit artificiose, ab aliis commode scripta facile intelligere poterit.

Cic. ad Herenn. b. 4.

D E

A R T E C R I T I C A .

DICTU difficile est, an sit dementia major.
 Egisse invitâ vatem criticumne Minervâ ;
 Ille tamen certe venia tibi dignior errat.
 Qui lassat, quam qui seducit in avia, sensus.
 Sunt, qui absurda canunt; sed enim stultissima stultos 5
 Quam longe exuperat criticorum natio vates;
 Se solum exhibuit quondam, melioribus annis.
 Natus hebes, ridendum ; at nunc musa improba prolem.
 Innumeram gignit, quæ mox sermone soluto
 Æquiparet stolidos versus, certetque stupendo. 10

Nobis judicium, veluti quæ dividit horas
 Machina, construitur, motus non omnibus idem;
 Non pretium, regit usque tamen sua quemque. Pœtas.
 Divite perpaucos venâ donavit Apollo,
 Et criticis recte sapere est rarissima virtus; 15
 Arte in utraque nitent felices indole soli,
 Musaque quos placido nascentes lumine vidit.
 Ille alios melius, qui inclaruit ipse, docebit,
 Jureque quam meruit, poterit tribuisse coronam.

Authors are partial to their wit, 'tis true ;
But are not criticks to their judgment too ?

Yet if we look more closely, we shall find,
† Most have the seeds of judgment in their mind : 20
Nature affords at least a glimm'ring light ;
'The lines, tho' touch'd but faintly, are drawn right.
But as the slightest sketch, if justly trac'd,
Is by ill-colouring but the more disgrac'd,
So by false learning is good sense defac'd. }
Some are bewilder'd in the maze of schools,
And some made coxcombs, nature meant but fools.
In search of wit, those lose their common sense,
And then turn criticks in their own defence.
Each burns alike, who can, or cannot write,
Or with a rival's, or an eunuch's spite.
All fools have still an itching to deride,
And fain wou'd be upon the laughing side :
If Mævius scribble in Apollo's spight,
There are, who judge still worse than he can write. 35

Some have at first for wits, then poets past,
Turn'd criticks next, and prov'd plain fools at last.
Some neither can for wits or criticks pass,
As heavy mules are neither horse, nor ass.

Bellula

Those half-learn'd wittlings num'rous in our isle, 40
 As half-form'd insects on the banks of Nile,
 Unfinish'd things one knows not what to call,
 Their generation's so equivocal :
 To tell 'em, wou'd a hundred tongues require,
 Or one vain wit's, that might a hundred tire. 45

But you who seek to give and merit Fame,
 And justly bear a critick's noble name,
 Be sure yourself and your own reach to know,
 How far your genius, taste, and learning go.
 Launch not beyond your depth, but be discreet, 50
 And mark that point where sense and dulness meet.
 Nature to all things fix'd the limits fit,
 And wisely curb'd proud man's pretending wit.
 As on the land while here the ocean gains,
 In other parts it leaves wide sandy plains. 55
 Thus in the soul, while memory prevails,
 The solid pow'r of understanding fails ;
 Where beams of warm imagination play,
 The memory's soft figures melt away.
 One science only will one genius fit ; 60
 So vast is art, so narrow human wit :
 Not only bounded to peculiar arts,
 But oft in those confin'd to single parts.
 Like kings, we lose the conquests gain'd before,
 By vain ambition still to make them more. 65

Each might his feveral province well command,
Would all but stoop to what they understand.

First follow Nature, and your judgment frame
By her juſt ſtandard, which is ſtill the ſame.
Unerring Nature, ſtill divinely bright, 70
One clear, unchang'd, and univerſal light,
Life, force, and beauty muſt to all impart,
At once the ſource, and end, and teſt of art.
Art from that fund each juſt ſupply provides,
Works without ſhow, and without pomp preſides: 75
In ſome fair body thus th' informing ſoul
With ſpirits feeds, with vigour fills the whole,
Each motion guides, and ev'ry nerve ſuſtains ;
Itſelf unſeen, but in th' effect, remains.
There are whom heav'n has bleſt with ſtore of wit, 80
Yet want as much again to manage it ;
For wit and judgment ever are at ſtrife,
Tho' meant each other's aid, like man and wife.
'Tis more to guide, than ſpur, the Muſe's ſteed ;
Reſtrain his fury, than provoke his ſpeed ;
The winged courſer, like a gen'rous horſe, 85
Shows moſt true Mettle when you check his courſe.

Thoſe rules of old diſcover'd, not devis'd,
Are Nature ſtill, but Nature methodiz'd :

Nature,

Sed sua tractatu facilis provincia cuique est,
Si non, quæ pulchre sciat, ut vulgaria, temnat.

Naturam sequere imprimis, atque illius æquâ
Judicium ex normâ fingas, quæ nescia flecti : 75
Illa etenim, sine labe micans, ab origine divâ,
Clarâ, constanti, lustrantique omnia luce,
Vitamque, speciemque, & vires omnibus addat,
Et fons, & finis simul, atque criterion artis. 80
Quærit opes ex hoc thesauro ars, & sine pompâ
Præsidet, & nullas turbas facit inter agendum.
Talis vivida vis formoso in corpore mentis,
Lætitiâ toti inspirans & robora massæ,
Ordinat & motus, & nervos sustinet omnes, 85
Inter opus varium tamen ipsa abscondita fallit.
Sæpe is, cui magnum ingenium Deus addidit, idem
Indigus est majoris, ut hoc benè calleat uti ;
Ingenium nam judicio velut uxor habendum est
Atque viro, cui fas ut pareat, usque repugnat. 90
Musæ quadrupedem labor est inhibere capistro,
Præcipientes regere, at non irritare volatus.
Pegasos, instar equi generosi, grandior ardet
Cum sentit retinacula, nobiliorque tuetur.

Regula quæque vetus tantum observata peritis 95
Non inventa fuit criticis, debetque profectò
Naturæ ascribi, sed enim quam lima polivit ;

Nature, like monarchy, is but restrain'd 90
 By the same laws, which first herself ordain'd.

Hear how learn'd Greece her useful rules indites,
 When to suppress, and when indulge our flights !
 High on Parnassus' top her sons she show'd,
 And pointed out those arduous paths they trod, 95
 Held from afar, aloft, th' immortal prize,
 And urg'd the rest by equal steps to rise.
 Just † precepts thus from great examples giv'n,
 She drew from them what they deriv'd from heav'n.
 The generous critic fann'd the poet's fire, 100
 And taught the world with reason to admire.
 Then Criticism the Muse's handmaid prov'd,
 To dress her charms, and make her more belov'd :
 But following wits from that intention stray'd :
 Who could not win the mistress woo'd the maid : 105
 Against the poets their own arms they turn'd,
 Sure to hate most the men from whom they learn'd.
 So modern 'pothecaries taught the art,
 By doctor's bills to play the doctor's part, 110
 Bold in the practice of mistaken rules,
 Prescribe, apply, and call their masters fools.
 Some on the leaves of ancient authors prey,
 Nor time, nor moths e'er spoil'd so much as they.

† Nec enim artibus editis factum est ut argumenta inveniremus, sed dicta sunt omnia antequam preciperentur, mox ea scriptores observata & collecta ediderunt.

Græcia, seu doctum premit, indulgetve furorem?
Illa suos sistit Parnassi in vertice natos,
Et, quibus ascendere docet, salebrofa viarum,
Sublimique manu dona immortalia monstrat,
Atque æquis reliquos procedere passibus urget. 105
Sic magnis doctrinâ ex exemplaribus haustâ,
Sumit ab hisce, quod hæc duxerunt ab Jove summo.
Ingenuus judex musarum ventilat ignes,
Et fretus ratione docet præcepta placendi.
Ars critica officiosa Camœnæ servit, & ornat 110
Egregias veneres, pluresque irretit amantes.
Nunc vero docti longè diversa sequentes,
Contempti dominæ, vilem petière ministram;
Propriaque in miseros verterunt tela poetas,
Discipulique suos pro more odere magistros. 115
Haud aliter sanè nostrates pharmacopolæ
Ex medicum crevit quibus ars plagiaria chartis,
Audaces errorum adhibent sine mente medelas,
Et veræ Hippocratis jactant convicia proli.
Hi veterum authorum scriptis vescuntur, & ipsos 120
Vermiculos, & tempus edax vicere vorando.

Some dryly plain, without invention's aid, 115
 Write dull receipts how poems should be made:
 These lose the sense their learning to display,
 And those explain the meaning quite away.

You then whose judgment the right course wou'd steer,
 Know well each Ancient's proper character, 120
 His fable, subject, scope of ev'ry page,
 Religion, country, genius of his age:
 Without all these at once before your eyes,
 Cavil you may, but never criticize
 Be Homer's works your study and delight, 125
 Read him by day and meditate by night.
 Thence form your judgment, thence your notions bring,
 And trace the Muses upward to their spring.
 Still with itself compar'd, his text peruse;
 Or let your comment be the Mantuan muse. 130

† When first young Maro sung of kings and wars,
 Ere warning Phœbus touch'd his trembling ears,
 Perhaps he seem'd above the critic's law,
 And but from nature's fountains scorn'd to draw;
 But when t'examine every part he came, 135
 Nature and Homer were, he found, the same;
 Convinc'd, amaz'd, he checks the bold design,
 And rules as strict his labour'd work confine,
 As if the Stagyrite o'erlook'd each line. }

† Cum canerem Reges & Prælia, Cynthia aurem vellit---VIRG. Ecl. 6.

Stultitiâ simplex ille, & sine divite venâ,
Carmina quo fiant pacto miserabilè narrat.
Doctrinam ostentans, mentem alter perdidit omnem,
Atque alter nodis vafer implicat enodando. 125

Tu quicumque cupis judex procedere rectè,
Fac veteris cujusque stylus discatur ad unguem ;
Fabulâ, materies, quo tendat pagina quævis ;
Patria, religio quæ sint, quæ moribus ævum :
Si non intuitu cuncta hæc complecteris uno, 130
Scurra, cavilator----criticus mihi non eris unquam.
Ilias esto tibi studium, tibi sola voluptas;
Perque diem lege, per noctes meditare serenas ;
Hinc tibi judicium, hinc ortum sententia ducat,
Musarumque undas fontem bibe lætus ad ipsum. 135
Ipse suorum operum sit commentator, & author,
Mæonidisve legas interprete scripta Marone.

Cum caneret primum parvus Mæro bella virosque,
Nec monitor Phœbus tremulas jam velleret aures,
Legibus immunem criticis se fortè putabat, 140
Nil nisi naturam archetypam dignatus adire :
Sed simul ac cautè mentem per singula volvit,
Naturam invenit, quacunque invenit Homerum.
Victus, & attonitus, malesani desinit ausi,
Jamque laboratum in numerum vigil omnia cogit, 145
Cultaque Aristotelis metitur carmina normâ.

Hinc

Learn hence for ancient rules a just esteem,
To copy nature, is to copy them. 140

Some beauties yet, no precepts can declare,
For there's a happiness as well as care.
Music resembles poetry, in each
Are nameless graces which no methods teach, } 145
And which a master-hand alone can reach.
† If where the rules not far enough extend,
(Since rules were made but to promote their end)
Some lucky licence answers to the full
Th' intent propos'd, that licence is a rule. 150
Thus Pegasus a nearer way to take,
May boldly deviate from the common track.
Great wits sometimes may gloriously offend,
And rise to faults true criticks dare not mend;
From vulgar bounds with brave disorder part, 155
And snatch a grace beyond the reach of art,
Which, without passing thro' the judgment, gains
The heart, and all its end at once attains.
In prospects thus some objects please our eyes,
Which out of nature's common order rise, } 160
The shapeless rock, or hanging precipice.
But care in poetry must still be had,
It asks discretion ev'n in running mad :

† Neque tam sancta sunt ista præcepta, sed hoc quicquid est, utilitas excogitavit; non negabo autem sic utile est plerumque; verum si eadem illa nobis aliud suadebit utilitas, hanc, relictis magistrorum autoritatibus, sequemur.

And tho' the antients thus their rules invade,
 (As kings dispense with laws themselves have made) 165
 Moderns beware ! or if you must offend
 Against the precept, ne'er transgress its end.
 Let it be seldom, and compell'd by need,
 And have, at least, their precedent to plead.
 The critic else proceeds without remorse, 170
 Seizes your fame, and puts his laws in force.

I know there are, to whose presumptuous thoughts
 Those freer beauties, even in them, seem faults.
 Some figures monstrous, and mis-shap'd appear,
 Consider'd singly, or beheld too near, 175
 Which, but proportion'd to their light, or place,
 Due distance reconciles to form and grace.
 A prudent chief not always must display
 His pow'rs in equal ranks, and fair array ;
 But with th' occasion, and the place comply, 180
 Conceal his force, nay, sometimes seem to fly.
 Those oft are stratagems which errors seem,
 Nor is it Homer nods, but we that dream.

Still green with bays each ancient altar stands,
 Above the reach of sacrilegious hands ; 185
 Secure from flames, from envy's fiercer rage,
 Destructive war, and all-devouring age.
 See, from each clime the learn'd their incense bring;
 Hear in all tongues consenting pæans ring!

 To teach vain wits a science little known,
 T'admire superior sense and doubt their own.

Of all the causes which conspire to blind
 Man's erring judgment, and misguide the mind ; 205
 What the weak head with strongest bias rules,
 Is pride, the never-failing vice of fools.
 Whatever nature has in worth deny'd,
 She gives, in large recruits of needful pride ;
 For as in bodies, thus in souls we find, 210
 What wants in blood and spirits, swell'd with wind :
 Pride, where wit fails, steps in to our defence,
 And fills up all the mighty void of sense !
 If once right reason drives that cloud away,
 Truth breaks upon us with resistless day ; 215

Ne musæ invigiles mediocritèr, aut fuge fontem
Castalium omnino, aut haustu te prolue pleno: 230
Istius laticis tibi mens abstemia torpet
Ebria, sobrietasque redit revocata bibendo.
Intuitu musæ primo, novitateque capta
Aspirat doctrinæ ad culmina summa juvenus
Intrepida, & quoniam tunc mens est arcta, suoque 235
Omnia metitur modulo, malè lippa labores
Ponè secuturos oculis non aspicit æquis:
Mox autem attonitæ jam jamque scientia menti
Crebrescit variata modis sine limite miris!
Sic ubi desertis conscendere vallibus Alpes 340
Aggredimur, nubesque humiles calcare videmur,
Protinus æternas superâsse nives, & in ipso
Invenisse viæ lætamur limine finem:
His vero exactis tacito terrore stupemus
Durum crescentem magis & magis usque laborem, 345
Jam longus tandem prospectus læsa fatigat
Lumina, dum colles assurgunt undique fæti
Collibus, impositæque emergunt Alpibus Alpes.

Totum

Survey the whole, nor seek slight faults to find,
 Where nature moves, and rapture warms the mind;
 Nor lose, for that malignant, dull delight, 240
 The gen'rous pleasure to be charm'd with wit:
 But in such lays as neither ebb nor flow,
 Correctly cold, and regularly low,
 That shunning faults, one quiet temper keep,
 We cannot blame indeed---but we may sleep: 245
 In wit, as nature, what affects our hearts
 Is not th' exactness of peculiar parts:
 'Tis not a lip, nor eye, we beauty call,
 But the joint force, and full result of all.
 Thus when we view some well-proportion'd dome, 250
 (The world's just wonderd, and ev'n thine, O Rome!)
 No single parts unequally surprize,
 All comes united to the admiring eyes;
 No monstrous height, or breadth, or length appear;
 The whole at once is bold and regular. 255

Whoever thinks a faultless piece to see,
 Thinks what ne'er was, nor is, nor e'er shall be.
 In ev'ry work regard the writer's end,
 Since none can compass more than they intend;
 And if the means be just, the conduct true, 260
 Applause, in spite of trivials faults, is due.
 As men of breeding, sometimes men of wit,
 T'avoid great errors, must the less commit.

Neglect

Totum perpendet, censorque est parcus, ubi ardor
Exagitat naturæ animos & concitat æstrum ;
Nec tam fervili generosa libidine mutet
Gaudia, quæ bibulæ menti catus ingerit author.
Verum stagnantis mediocria carmina musæ, 255
Quæ reptant sub limâ & certâ lege stupefcunt,
Quæ torpent uno erroris secura tenore,
Hæc equidem nequeo culpæ---& dormio tantum.
Ingenii, veluti naturæ, non tibi constant
Illecebræ formâ, quæ certis partibus infit ; 260
Nam te non reddit labiumve oculusve venustum,
Sed charitum cumulus, collectaque tela decoris.
Sic ubi lustramus perfectam insignitèr ædem,
(Quæ Romam splendore, ipsumque ita perculit orbem)
Læta diu non ullâ in simplice parte morantur 265
Lumina, sed sese per totum errantia pascunt ;
Nil longum latumve nimis, nil altius æquo
Cernitur, illustris nitor omnibus, omnibus ordo.

Quod consummatum est opus omni ex parte, nec usquam
Nunc exstat, nec erat, nec erit labentibus annis.
Quas sibi proponat metas adverte, poeta
Ultra aliquid sperare, illas si absolvat, iniquum est ;
Si recta ratione utatur, consilioque
Perfecto, missis maculis, vos plaudite clamo. 275
Accidit, ut vates, veluti vaser Aulicus, erret
Scæpius errorem, ut vitet graviora, minorem.

Neglige,

Neglect the rules each verbal critic lays,
 For not to know some trifles is a praise. 265
 Most critics fond of some subservient art,
 Still make the whole depend upon a part,
 They talk of principles, but notions prize,
 And all to one lov'd folly sacrifice.

Once, on a time, la Mancha's knight, they say, 270
 A certain bard encount'ring on the way,
 Discours'd in terms as just, in looks as sage,
 As e'er cou'd Dennis, of the Grecian stage;
 Concluding all were desp'rate fots, and fools,
 That durst depart from Aristotle's rules. 275
 Our author happy in a judge so nice,
 Produc'd his play, and begg'd the knight's advice;
 Made him observe the subject, and the plot,
 The manners, passions, unities, what not?
 All which, exact to rule, were brought about, 280
 Were but a combat in the lists left out
 "What! leave the combat out?" exclaims the knight;
 Yes, or we must renounce the Stagyrte.
 "Not so, by heav'n! (he answers in a rage)
 "Knights, squires, and steeds, must enter on the stage."
 The stage can ne'er so vast a throng contain. 286
 "Then build a-new, or act it on a plain."

Thus critics of less judgment than caprice,
 Curious, not knowing, not exact, but nice,

Neglige, quas criticus, verborum futilis auceps,
Leges edicit: nugas nescire decorum est.

Artis cujusdam tantum auxiliaris amantes 280
Partem aliquam plerique colunt vice totius; illi
Multa crepant de judicio, nihilominus istam
Stultitiam, sua quam sententia laudat, adorant.

QUIXOTUS quondam, si vera est fabula, cuidam
Occurrens vati, criticum certamen inivit 285
Docta citans, graviterque tuens, tanquam arbiter alter
DENNISIUS, Graii moderatus fræna theatri;
Acriter id dein asseruit, stultum esse hebetemque,
Quisquis Aristotelis posset contemnere leges.
Quid?—talem comitem nactus feliciter author, 290
Mox tragicum, quod composuit, proferre poema.
Incipit, et critici scitari oracula tanti.

Jam *μυθον, τα παθη, τ' ηθη, προβλημα, λυση*que &
Cætera de genere hoc equiti describat hianti,
Quæ cuncta ad normam quadrarent, inter agendum 295
Si tantum prudens certamen omitteret author.
“ Quid vero certamen omittes? excipit heros;
Sic veneranda Sophi suadent documenta. “ Quid ergo,
Armigerumque equitumque cohors scenam intret, oportet,” Forſan, at ipsa capax non tantæ scena catervæ est: 300
“ OEdificave aliam.—vel apertis utere campis.”

Sic ubi supposito morosa superbia regnat
Judicio, criticæque tenent fastidia curæ

Form short ideas, and offend in arts 290
 (As most in manners) by a love to parts.

Some to conceit alone their taste confine,
 And glitt'ring thoughts struck out at ev'ry line;
 Pleas'd with a work, where nothing's just or fit,
 One glaring chaos, and wild heap of wit. 295
 Poets like painters, thus unskill'd to trace
 The naked nature, and the living grace,
 With gold and jewels cover ev'ry part,
 And hide with ornaments their want of art.
 True † wit is nature to advantage dress'd, 300
 What oft was thought, but ne'er so well express'd;
 Something, whose truth convinc'd at sight, we find,
 That gives us back the image of our mind.
 As shades more sweetly recommend the light,
 So modest plainness sets off sprightly wit: 305
 For works may have more wit than does them good,
 As bodies perish through excess of blood.

Others, for language all their care express,
 And value books, as women men, for dress:
 Their praise is still---the style is excellent; 310
 The sense they humbly take upon content.

Pagina, perpetuoque nitet distincta lepore,
Nil aptum soliti justumve requirere, latè
Si micet ingenii chaos, indiscretaque moles. 310
Nudas naturæ veneres, vivumque decorem
Fingere, qui nequeunt, quorundam exempla secuti
Pictorum, haud gemmis parcant, haud sumptibus auri,
Ut sese abscondat rutilis inscitia velis.
Vis veri ingenii, natura est cultior, id quod 315
Senserunt multi, sed jam scite exprimit unus,
Quod primo pulchrum intuitu, rectumque videtur
Et mentis menti simulachra repercutit ipsi.
Haud secus ac lucem commendant suavitur umbræ,
Ingenio sic simplicitas superaddit honorem: 320
Nam fieri possit musa ingeniosior æquo,
Et pereant tumidæ nimio tibi sanguine venæ.

Nonnulli vero verborum in cortice ludunt,
Ornatusque libri solos muliebriter ardent.
Egregium ecce! stylum clamant! sed semper ocellis 325
Prætereunt malè, si quid inest rationis, inunctis.

Words are like leaves, and where they most abound,
 Much fruit of sense beneath is rarely found.
 False eloquence, like the prismatic glass,
 Its gaudy colours spreads on ev'ry place ;
 The face of nature we no more survey,
 All glares alike, without distinction gay ;
 But true expression, like th' unchanging sun,
 Clears and improves whate'er it shines upon,
 It gilds all objects but it alters none.
 Expression is the dress of thought, and still Appears more decent, as more suitable ;
 A vile conceit in pompous words express'd,
 Is like a clown in regal purple dress'd ;
 For different styles with different subjects sort,
 As sev'ral garbs, with country, town, and court.
 Some * by old words to fame have made pretence,
 Ancients in phrase, meer moderns in their sense!
 Such labour'd nothings in so strange a style,
 Amaze the unlearn'd, and make the learned smile.
 Unlucky, as Fungoso in the † play ;
 These sparks with aukward vanity display
 What the fine gentleman wore yesterday.

If crystal streams, with pleasing murmurs creep, 355
 The reader's threat'ned, not in vain, with sleep.
 Then at the last, and only couplet fraught
 With some unmeaning thing they call a thought,
 A needless Alexandrine ends the song,
 That like a wounded snake, drags its flow length along.
 Leave such to tune their own dull rhymes, and know
 What's roundly smooth, or languishingly flow,
 And praise the easy vigour of a line
 Where Denham's strength, and Waller's sweetness join.
 True ease in writing comes from art not chance, 365
 As those move easiest who have learn'd to dance.
 'Tis not enough no harshness gives offence,
 The sound must seem an echo to the sense.
 Soft is the strain when Zephyr gently blows,
 And the smooth stream in smoother numbers flows, 370
 But when loud billows lash the sounding shore,
 The hoarse rough verse should like the torrent roar.
 When Ajax strives, some rock's vast weight to throw,
 The line too labours, and the words move slow,
 Not so, when swift Camilla scours the plain, 375
 Flies o'er th' unbending corn, and skims along the main.

 Quando est saxum Ajax vastâ vi volvere adortus,
 Tardè incedat versus, multum perque laborem.
 Non ita sive Camilla cito salis æquora rasit,
 Sive levis levitèrque terit, neque flectit aristas.
 Audin! Timothei cœlestia carmina, menti 395
 Dulcibus alloquiis varios suadentia motus!

While at each change the son of Lybian Jove,
 Now burns with glory, and then melts with love; 380
 Now fierce his eyes with sparkling fury glow!
 Now sighs steal out, and tears begin to flow;
 Persians and Greeks like turns of nature found,
 And the world's victor stood subdu'd by sound!
 The pow'r of music all our hearts allow,
 And what Timotheus was, is Dryden now. 385

Avoid extremes, and shun the fault of such,
 Who still are pleas'd too little, or too much.
 At ev'ry trifle scorn to take offence,
 That always shows great pride, or little sense. 390
 Those heads, as stomachs, are not sure the best,
 Which nauseate all, and nothing can digest.
 Yet let not each gay turn thy rapture move;
 For fools admire, but men of sense approve.
 As things seem large which we thro' mists descry, 395
 Dulness is ever apt to magnify.

Some the French writers, some our own despise;
 The ancients only, or the moderns prize.
 (Thus wit, like faith, by each man is apply'd
 To one small sect, and all are damn'd beside,) 400

Meanly they seek the blessing to confine,
 And force that sun but on a part to shine,
 Which not alone the southern wit sublimes,
 But ripens spirits in cold northern climes,
 Which from the first has shone on ages past, 405
 Enlights the present, and shall warm the last.
 (Tho' each may feel increases and decays,
 And see now clearer and now darker days)
 Regard not then if wit be old or new,
 But blame the false and value still the true. 410

Some ne'er advance a judgment of their own,
 But catch the spreading notion of the town;
 They reason and conclude by precedent,
 And own stale nonsense, which they ne'er invent.
 Some judge of authors names, not works, and then 415
 Nor praise, nor blame the writings, but the men.
 Of all this servile herd, the worst is he
 Who in proud dulness joins with quality,
 A constant critic at the great man's board,
 To fetch and carry nonsense for my lord. 420
 What woful stuff this madrigal wou'd be,
 In some starved hackney sonneteer, or me?
 But let a lord once own the happy lines,
 How the wit brightens, how the style refines!

Scilicet, inque malam rem cætera turba jubentur.
 Frustra autem immensis cupiunt imponere metam

 Non solum australes genios fœcundat et auget. 425
 Qui primis latè sua lumina sparsit ab annis,
 Ilustrat præsens, summûmque accenderit ævum.
 (Cuique vices variæ tamen; et jam sæcula fœclis Succedunt pejora, et jam meliora peractis)
 Pro meritis musam laudare memento, nec unquam 430
 Neglige quod novitas distinguit, quodve vetustas.

Sunt qui nil proprium in medium proferre suerunt,
 Judiciumque suum credunt popularibus auris;
 Tum vulgi quò exempla trahunt retrahuntque sequuntur,
 Tolluntque expostas latè per compita nugas. 435
 Turba alia authorum titulos et nomina discit
 Scriptoresque ipsos, non scripta examinat. Horum
 Pessimus iste cluet, si quem serviliter ipsos
 Visere magnates stupor ambitiosus adegit.
 Qui critice ad mensam domino ancillatur inepto, 440
 Futilis ardelio, semper referensque ferensque
 Nuntia nugarum. Quam pingua, quam male nata
 Carmina censentur, quæcunque ego fortè vel ullus
 Pangere Apollinæ tentat faber improbus artis!
 At si quis vero, si quis vir magnus adoptet 445
 Felicem musam, quantus nitor ecce! venusque

Before his sacred name flies ev'ry fault, 425
And each exalted stanza steems with thought!

The vulgar thus thro' imitation err,
As oft the learn'd by being singular;
So much they scorn the croud, that if the throng
By chance go right, they purposely go wrong: 430
So schismatics the plain believers quit,
And are but damn'd for having too much wit.

Some blame at morning what they praise at night;
But always think the last opinion right.
A muse by these is like a mistress us'd, 435
This hour she's idoliz'd, the next abus'd;
While their weak heads like towns unfortify'd,
'Twixt sense and nonsense daily change their side.
Ask them the cause, they're wiser still they say;
And still to-morrow's wiser than to-day. 440
We think our fathers fools, so wise we grow;
Our wiser sons, no doubt, will think us so.
Once school-divines this zealous isle oe'erspread;
Who knew most sentences, was deepest read;

Religiosa

Faith, gospel, all, seem'd made to be disputed, 445
 And none had sense enough to be confuted:
 Scotists and Thomists, now in peace remain;
 Amidst their kindred cobwebs in Duck-lane.
 If faith itself has diff'rent dresses worn,
 What wonder modes in wit shou'd take their turn? 450
 Oft leaving what is natural and fit,
 The current folly proves the ready wit;
 And authors think their reputation safe,
 Which lives as long as fools are pleas'd to laugh.

Some valuing those of their own side or mind, 455
 Still make themselves the measure of mankind;
 Fondly we think we honour merit then,
 When we but praise ourselves in other men.
 Parties in wit attend on those of state,
 And public faction doubles private hate. 460
 Pride, malice, folly, against Dryden rose,
 In various shapes of parsons, critics, beaux;
 But sense surviv'd when merry jests were past;
 For rising merit will buoy up at last.
 Might he return and bless once more our eyes, 465
 New Blackmores and new Milbournes must arise;
 Nay, shou'd great Homer lift his awful head,
 Zoilus again wou'd start up from the dead.

Religiosa fides simul ac sacra omnia nasci

 Ipse etiam erigeret vultus si forte verendos 495
 ZOILUS ex orco gressus revocaret. Ubique

Envy will merit, as its shade pursue,
 But like a shadow proves the substance true; 470
 For envy'd wit, like Sol eclips'd, makes known
 Th' opposing body's grossness, not its own.
 When first the sun-too pow'rful beams displays,
 It draws up vapours which obscure the rays;
 But ev'n those clouds at last adorn its way, 475
 Reflect new glories and augment the day.

Be thou the first true merit to befriend,
 His praise is lost who stays till all commend.
 Short is the date, alas! of modern rhymes,
 And 'tis but just to let them live betimes. 480
 No longer now that golden age appears,
 When patriarch-wits surviv'd a thousand years;
 Now length of fame (our second life) is lost,
 And bare threescore, is all ev'n that can boast;
 Our sons their fathers failing language see, 485
 And such as Chaucer is, shall Dryden be.
 So when the faithful pencil has design'd
 Some bright idea of the master's mind,
 Where a new world leaps out at his command,
 And ready nature waits upon his hand; 490

And

Virtuti malus, umbra velut nigra, livor adhæret,
 Sed verum ex vanâ corpus cognoscitur umbrâ.
 Ingenium, solis jam deficientis ad instar
 Invisum, oppositi tenebras tantum arguit orbis,
 Dum claro intemerata manent sua lumina divo.
 Sol prodit cum primum, atque intolerabile fulget
 Attrahit obscuros flammâ magnetæ vapores;
 Mox vero pingunt etiam invida nubila callem
 Multa coloratum, & crescentia nubila spargunt
 Uberius, geminoque die viridaria donant.

Tu primus meritis plaudas, nihil ipse meretur,
 Qui serus laudator adest. Brevis, heu! brevis ævi
 Participes nostri vates celebrantur, et æquum est
 Angustam quam primum assuecant degere vitam.
 Aurea nimirum jamjudum evanuit ætas,
 Cum vates patriarchæ extabant mille per annos:
 Jam spes deperiit, nobis vita altera, famæ,
 Nostraque marcescit sexagenaria laurus!
 Aspicimus nati patriæ dispendia linguæ,
 Et vestis CHAUCERI olim gestanda DRYDENO est.
 Sic ubi parturuit mens dives imagine multâ
 Pictori, calamoque interprete cœpit acuti
 Concilium cerebri narrare coloribus aptis,
 Protinus ad nutum novus emicat orbis, et ipsa
 Evolvit manui sese natura disertæ;

When the ripe colours soften and unite,
 And sweetly melt into just shade and light,
 When mellowing years their full perfection give,
 And each bold figure just begins to live,
 The treach'rous colours the fair art betray, 495
 And all the bright creation fades away.

Unhappy wit, like most mistaken things,
 Attones not for the envy which it brings.
 In youth alone its empty praise we boast,
 But soon the short-liv'd vanity is lost! 500
 Like some fair flow'r the early spring supplies,
 That gaily blooms, but ev'n in blooming dies
 What is this wit which most our cares employ?
 The owner's wife, that other men enjoy;
 Still most our trouble, when the most admir'd; 505
 The more we give, the more is still requir'd:
 The fame with pains we gain, but lose with ease,
 Sure some to vex, but never all to please;
 'Tis what the vicious fear; the virtuous shun,
 By fools 'tis hated, and by knaves undone! 510

If

Dulcia cum molles cœunt in sædera fuci
 Tandem maturi, liquidamque decenter obumbrant
 Admistis lucem tenebris, et euntibus annis, 525
 Quando opus ad summum perductum est culmen, & audent.
 E vivâ formæ extantes spirare tabellâ:
 Perfidus heul pulchram color ævo prodidit artem,
 Egregiusque decor jam nunc fuit omnis, et urbes,
 Et fluvii, pictique homines, terræque fuerunt! 530

Heul dos ingenii, veluti quodcunque furore
 Cæco prosequimur, nihil unquam muneris adfert,
 Quod redimat comitem invidiam! juvenilibus annis
 Nil nisi inane sophos jactamus, et ista voluptas
 Vana, brevis, momento evanuit alitis horæ! 535
 Flos veluti veris peperit quem prima juvenus,
 Ille viret, periitque virens sine falce caducus.
 Quid verò ingenium est quæso? Quid ut illius ergo
 Tantum insudemus? nonne est tibi perfida conjux
 Quam dominus vestis, vicinia tota potita est; 540
 Quo placuisse magis nobis fors obtigit, inde
 Nata magis cura est. Quid enim? crescentibus almæ
 Musæ muneribus populi spes crescit avari.
 Laus ipsa acquiri est operosa, et lubrica labi;
 Quin quosdam irritare necesse est; omnibus autem. 545
 Nequaquam fecisse satis datur; ingeniumque
 Expallet vitium, devitat conscia virtus.
 Stulti omnes oderê, scelesti perdere gaudent.

Quando.

If wit so much from ign'rance undergo,
 Ah, let not learning too commence its foe!
 Of old, those met rewards who cou'd excel,
 And such were prais'd, who but endeavour'd well;
 Tho' triumphs were to gen'als only due, 515
 Crowns were reserv'd to grace the soldier too.
 Now they who reach Parnassus' lofty crown,
 Employ their pains to spurn some others down;
 And while self-love each jealous writer rules,
 Contending wits become the sport of fools. 520
 But still the worst with most regret commend,
 For each ill author is as bad a friend.
 To what base end, and by what abject ways,
 Are mortals urg'd thro' sacred lust of praise!
 Ah, ne'er so dire a thirst of glory boast, 525
 Nor in the critic let the man be lost:
 Good-nature, and good-sense must ever join;
 To err is human, to forgive divine.

But if in noble minds some dregs remain,
 Not yet purg'd off, of spleen and sour disdain; 530
 Discharge that rage on more provoking crimes,
 Nor fear a dearth in these flagitious times.
 No pardon vile obscenity shou'd find,
 Tho' wit and art conspire to move your mind:

But

Quando adeo infestam sese ignorantia præstet,
 Absit, ut ingenium bello doctrina laceßat! 550
 Præmia proposuit meritis olim æqua vetustas,
 Et sua laus etiam conatos magna secuta est;
 Quanquam etenim fortis dux solus ovabat, at ipsis
 Militibus crines pulchræ impediere corollæ.
 At nunc qui bifidi superarunt improba montis 555
 Culmina, certatim socios detrudere tentant;
 Scriptorem, quid enim! dum quemque philautia ducit
 Zelotypum, instaurant certamina mutua vates,
 Et sese alterni stultis ludibria præbent.
 Fert ægrè alterius, qui pessimus audit honores, 560
 Improbus improbuli vice fungitur author amici;
 En fædis quam fæda viis mortalia corda
 Cogit persequier famæ malefuada libido!
 Ah! ne gloriolæ usque adeo fitis impia regnet,
 Nec critici affectans, hominis simul exue nomen; 565
 Sed candor cum judicio conjuret amicè,
 Peccare est hominum, peccanti ignoscere, divum.

At vero si cui ingenuo præcordia bilis
 Non despumatæ fatis acri sæce laborant,
 In scelera accensas pejora exerceat iras, 570
 Nil dubitet, segetem præbent hæc tempora largam.
 Obscæno detur nulla indulgentia vati,
 Ars licet ingenio supeaddita cerea flecti

Pectora

But dulness with obscenity must prove, 535
 As shameful sure as impotence in love.
 In the fat age of pleasure, wealth and ease,
 Sprung the rank weed, and thriv'd with large increase;
 When love was all an easy monarch's care,
 Seldom at a council, never in a war: 540
 Jilts rul'd the state, and statesmen farces writ;
 Nay wits had pensions, and young lords had wit:
 The fair fate panting at a courtier's play,
 And not a mask went unimprov'd away:
 The modest fan was lifted up no more, 545
 And virgins smil'd at what they blush'd before----
 The following licence of a foreign reign
 Did all the dregs of bold Socinus drain;
 Then unbelieving priests reform'd the nation,
 And taught more pleasant methods of salvation; 550
 Where heaven's free subjects might their rights dispute,
 Lest God himself should seem too absolute.
 Pulpits their sacred satire learn'd to spare,
 And vice admir'd to find a flatt'rer there!
 Encourag'd thus, wit's Titans brav'd the skies, 555
 And the press groan'd with licenc'd blasphemies----

 In nostris flos iste malus caput extulit oris.
 Tunc ubi rex facilis vigit, qui semper amore,

 Scripserunt mimos proceres, meretricibus aulæ
 Successit regimen; nec non magnatibus ipsis
 Affuit ingenium, stipendiaque ingeniosa.
 Patriciæ in scenis spectavit opuscula musæ
 Multa nurus, lasciva tuens, atque auribus hausit 585
 Omnia larvato secura modestia vultu.

 Ut populus patriâ cum libertate sacris

 (Crediderim) Omnipotens foret ipse potentior æquo.
 Tempia sacra fatiram jam tum violata fitebant:
 Et laudes vitii, vitio mirante, sonabant!
 Accensi hinc musæ Titanes ad astra ruerunt,
 Legeque sancitum quassit blasphemia prælum.--- 600

These monsters, critics, with your darts engage,
 Here point your thunder, and exhaust your rage!
 Yet shun their fault, who scandalously nice,
 Will needs mistake an author into vice; 560
 All seems infected that th' infected spy,
 As all looks yellow to the jaundic'd eye.

Learn then what morals critics ought to show,
 For 'tis but half a judge's task to know.
 'Tis not enough wit, art, and learning join; 565
 In all you speak, let truth and candour shine:
 That not alone what to your judgment's due
 All may allow; but seek your friendship too.

Be silent always when you doubt your sense;
 And speak, tho' sure, with seeming diffidence; 570
 Some positive, persisting fops we know,
 That if once wrong, will needs be always so;
 But you with pleasure own your errors past,
 And make each day, a critic on the last.

'Tis not enough your counsel still be true, 575
 Blunt truths more mischief than nice falsehoods do;
 Men must be taught as if you taught 'em not,
 And things unknown propos'd as things forgot.

Without

Hæc monstra, O critici, contra hæc convertite telum,
Huc fulmen, tonitruque styli torquete severi,
Et penitus totum obnixi exonerate furorem!
At tales fugias, qui, non fine fraude severi,
Scripta malam in partem, livore interprete, vertunt; 605
Pravis omnia prava videntur, ut omnia passim
Ictericus propriâ ferrugine tingit ocellus.

Jam mores critici proprios, advertè, docebo;
Dimidiata etenim est tibi sola scientia virtus.
Non satis est ars, ingenium, doctrinaque vires, 610
Quæque suas jungant, si non quoque candor honestis,
Et veri sincerus amor sermonibus insint.
Sic tibi non solum quisque amplius solvet honores,
Sed te, qui criticum probat, exoptabit amicum,

Mutus, quando animus dubius tibi fluctuat, esto; 615
Sin tibi confidis, dictis confide pudenter.
Quidam hebetes semper perstant erroribus; at tu
Præteritas lætus culpas fateare, dies-que
Quisque dies redimat, criticoque examine tentet.

Hoc tibi non satis est, verum, quod præcipis, esse, 620
Veridici mala rusticitas magè sæpe molesta est
Auribus, ingenuam quam verba ferentia fraudem;
Non ut præceptor, cave des præcepta, reique
Ignaros, tanquam immemores, catus instrue: verax

Without good-breeding, truth is disapprov'd;
That only makes superior sense belov'd.

580

Be niggards of advice on no pretence;
For the worst avarice is that of sense.
With mean complacence ne'er betray your trust,
Nor be so civil as to prove unjust;
Fear most the anger of the wise to raise,
Those best can bear reproof who merit praise.

585

'Twere well, might critics still this freedom take,
But Appius reddens at each word you speak,
And stares, tremendous with a threat'ning eye,
Like some fierce tyrant in old tapestry!
Fear most to tax an honourable fool,
Whose right it is uncensur'd to be dull;
Such without wit are poets when they please,
As without learning they can take degrees.
Leave dang'rous truths to unsuccessful satyrs,
And flattery to fulsome dedicators,
Whom, when they praise, the world believes no more,
Than when they promise to give scribbling o'er.
'Tis best sometimes your censure to restrain
And charitably let the dull be vain.

86. AN ESSAY ON CRITICISM.

Your silence there is better than your spite,
 For who can rail so long as they can write?
 Still humming on their drowsy course they keep,
 And lash'd so long, like tops, are lash'd asleep.
 False steps but help them to renew the race, 605
 As after stumbling, jades will mend their pace:
 What crouds of these, impertinently bold,
 In sounds, and jing'ling syllables grown old,
 Still run on poets in a raging vein,
 Ev'n to the dregs, and squeezings of the brain: 610
 Strain out the last dull droppings of their sense,
 And rhyme with all the rage of impotence.

Such shameless bards we have, and yet 'tis true,
 There are as mad abandon'd critics too.
 The book-full blockhead, ignorantly read, 615
 With loads of learned lumber in his head,
 With his own tongue, still edifies his ears,
 And always list'ning to himself appears---
 All books he reads, and all he reads assails
 From Dryden's fables, down to Durfy's tales. 620
 With him most authors steal their works, or buy;
 Garth did not write his own dispensary.
 Name a new play, and he's the poet's friend,
 Nay, show'd his faults---but when wou'd poets mend?

No

Hic taceas monco, nihil indignatio prodest,
 Fessus eris culpando, ea gens haud fessa canendo:
 Nam temnens stimulos, tardum cum murmure cursum.
 Continuat, donec jam tandem, turbinis instar
 Vapulet in torporem, & semper eundo quiescat.
 Talibusex lapsu vis est reparata frequenti,
 Ut tardi titubata urgent vestigia manni. 655
 Horum pleraque pars, cui nulla amentia deficit,
 Tinnitu numerorum et amore senescit inani,
 Perstat difficili carmen deducere venâ,
 Donec inexhausto restat sæx ulla cerebro, 660
 Reliquias stillat vix expressæ malè mentis,
 Et miseram invalidâ exercet prurigine musam.

Sunt nobis vates hoc de grege, sed tamen idem.
 Affirmo, criticorum ejusdem sortis abunde est.
 Helluo librorum, qui sudat, hebetque legendo, 665
 Cui mens nugarum doctâ farragine turget
 Attentas propriæ voci malè recreat aures,
 Auditorque sibi solus miser ipse videtur.
 Ille omnes legit authores, omnesque laceffit
 Durseio infestus pariter magnoque Drydeno. 670
 Judice sub tali semper furatur, emitve
 Quisque suum bonus author opus: (non Garthius illi.
 Si credas) proprium contexit ipse poema.
 In scenis nova si comœdia agatur, " amicus
 " Hujus scriptor (ait) meus est, cui non ego paucas 675
 " Ostendi maculas; sed mens est nulla poetis."

Non

No place so sacred from such fops is barr'd, 625
 Nor is Paul's-church more safe than Paul's-church-yard;
 Nay fly to altars; there he'll talk you dead;
 For fools rush in where angels fear to tread.
 Distrustful sense with modest caution speaks,
 It still looks home, and short excursions makes, } 630
 But rattling nonsense in full vollies breaks,
 And never shock'd, and never turn'd aside,
 Bursts out, resistless, with a thund'ring tide!

But where's the man, who counsel can bestow,
 Still pleas'd to teach, and yet not proud to know? 635
 Unbias'd, or by favour, or by spite;
 Not dully prepossess'd, or blindly right,
 Tho' learn'd, well-bred; and tho' well-bred, sincere,
 Modestly bold, and humanely severe?
 Who to a friend his faults can freely show, 640
 And gladly praise the merit of a foe?
 Blest with a taste exact and unconfin'd;
 A knowledge both of books and human kind;
 Gen'rous converse; a soul exempt from pride,
 And love to praise, with reason on his side? 645

Such once were critics; such the happy few,
 Athens and Rome in better ages knew.
 The mighty Stagyrite first left the shore,
 Spread all his sails, and durst the deep explore;

He

Non locus est tam sanctus, ut hunc expellere possit,
 Nec templum in tuto est, plusquam via; quin pete sacras
 Aufugiens aras, & ad aras iste sequetur
 Occidetque loquendo; etenim stultus ruet ultro 680
 Nil metuens, ubi ferre pedem vix angelus audet.
 Diffidit sibimet sapientia cauta, brevesque
 Excursus tentans in se sua lumina vertit;
 Stultitia at præceps violento vortice currit
 Nonnunquam tremefacta, nec unquam e tramite cedens, 685
 Flumine fulmineo se totam invicta profundit.

Tu vero quisnam es monita instillare peritus,
 Qui, quod scis, lætus monstras, neque scire superbis,
 Non odio ductus pravove favore, nec ulli
 Addictus sectæ, ut pecces, neque cæcus, ut erres; 690
 Doctus, at urbanus, sincerus, at aulicus idem,
 Audacterque pudens mediâque humanus in irâ.
 Qui nunquam dubites vel amico ostendere culpas,
 Et celebres inimicum haud parcâ laude merentem.
 Purgato ingenio felix, sed & infinito, 695
 Et quod librorumque hominumque scientia ditat;
 Colloquium cui come, animus summissus & ingens,
 Laudandique omnes, ratio cum præcipit, ardor!

Tales extiterunt critici, quos Græcia quondam,
 Romaque mirata est nato; melioribus annis. 700
 Primus Aristoteles est ausus solvere navem,
 Atque datis velis vastum explorare profundum.

He steer'd securely, and discover'd far,
Led by the light of the Mæonian star.
Poets, a race long unconfin'd and free,
Still fond and proud of savage liberty,
Receiv'd his laws, and stood convinc'd 'twas fit,
Who conquer'd nature, should preside o'er wit.

Horace still charms with graceful negligence,
And without method talks us into sense,
Will like a friend, familiarly convey
The truest notions in the easiest way;
He, who supreme in judgment, as in wit, 660
Might boldly censure, as he boldly writ;
Yet judg'd with coolness, tho' he sung with fire,
His precepts teach but what his works inspire.
Our critics take a contrary extreme
They judge with fury, but they write with phlegm; 665
Nor suffers Horace more in wrong translations
By wits, than critics in as wrong quotations.
See Dionysius * Homer's thoughts refine,
And call new beauties forth from ev'ry line.
Fancy and art in gay Petronius please, 670
The scholar's learning, with the courtier's ease.

In grave Quintilian's copious work we find
The justest rules, and clearest method join'd;

DE ARTE CRITICA.

Tutus iit, longèque ignotas attigit oras
Lumina Mæoniæ observans radiantia stellæ.
Jam vates, gens illa, diu quæ lege soluta est, 705
Et sævæ capta est malè libertatis amore,
Lætantes dominum accipiunt, atque omnis eodem,
Qui domuit naturam, exultat præside musa.

Nusquam non grata est incuria comis Horatî,
Qui nec opinantes nos erudit absque magistro, 710
Ille suas leges, affabilis instar amici
Quam veras simul & quam claro more profundit!
Ille licet tam judicio quam divite venâ
Maximus, audacem criticum, non scriptor inaudax,
Præstaret se jure, tamen sedatus ibidem 715
Censor, ubi cecinit divino concitus æstro,
Carminibusque eadem inspirat, quæ tradidit Arte.
Nostrates homines planè in contraria currunt,
Turba, stylo vehemens critico, sed frigida Phœbo:
Nec malè vertendo Flaccum torfere poetæ 720
Absurdi, magè quam critici sine mente citando.
Aspice, ut expoliat numeros Dionysius ipsi
Mæonidæ, veneresque accersat ubique recentes!
Conditam ingenio jactat Petronius artem,
Cui doctrina scholas redolet simul & sapit aulam. 725

Cum docti Fabii cumulata volumina versas,
Optima perspicuâ in serie documenta videre est,

Thus useful arms in magazines we place,
 All rang'd in order, and dispos'd with grace.
 Nor thus alone the curious eye to please,
 But to be found when need requires with ease.

675

Thee, bold Longinus! all the Nine inspire,
 And bless their critic with a poet's fire;
 An ardent judge, who zealous in his trust
 With warmth gives sentence, yet is always just;
 Whose own example strengthens all his laws,
 And is himself that great sublime he draws.

680

Thus long succeeding critics justly reign'd
 Licence repress'd, and useful laws ordain'd.
 Learning and Rome alike in empire grew,
 And arts still follow'd where her eagles flew;
 From the same foes, at last, both felt their doom,
 And the same age saw learning fall and Rome.
 With tyranny, then superstition join'd,
 As that the body, this enslav'd the mind;
 Much was believ'd, but little understood,
 And to be dull was constru'd to be good;
 A second deluge learning thus o'er-run,
 And the Monks finish'd what the Goths begun.

Stem'd the wild torrent of a barb'rous age,
And drove those holy Vandals off the stage.

But see each muse in Leo's golden days,
Starts from her trance, and trims her wither'd bays!
Rome's ancient genius, o'er its ruins spread,
Shakes off the dust, and rears his rev'rend head!
Then Sculpture and her sister arts revive,
Stones leap'd to form, and rocks began to live;
With sweeter notes each rising temple rung;
A Raphael painted, and a * Vida sung!
Immortal Vida! on whose honour'd brow
The poets bays, and critics ivy grow:
Cremona now shall ever boast thy name,
As next in place to Mantua, next in fame!

But soon by impious arms from Latium chac'd,
Their ancient bounds the banish'd muses past;
Thence arts o'er all the northern world advance;
But critic learning flourish'd most in France:
The rules, a nation born to serve obeys;
And Boileau still in right of Horace sways;
But we, brave Britons, foreign laws despis'd,
And kept unconquer'd, and unciviliz'd,

Fierce for the liberties of wit, and bold, 720
 We still defy'd the Romans, as of old.
 Yet some there were among the sounder few
 Of those who less presum'd, and better knew,
 Who durst assert the juster ancient cause,
 And here restor'd wit's fundamental laws. 725
 Such was the muse, whose rules and practice tell,
 Nature's * chief master-piece is writing well.
 Such was Roscommon---not more learn'd than good,
 With manners gen'rous as his noble blood;
 To him the wit of Greece and Rome was known, 730
 And ev'ry author's merit but his own.
 Such late was Walsh---the muse's judge and friend;
 Who justly knew to blame, or to commend;
 To failings mild, but zealous for desert;
 The clearest head, and the sincerest heart. 735
 This humble praise, lamented shade! receive,
 This praise at least a grateful muse may give!
 The muse, whose early voice you taught to sing,
 Prescrib'd her heights, and prun'd her tender wing;
 (Her guide now lost) no more pretends to rise, 740
 But in low numbers short excursions tries;
 Content, if hence th' unlearn'd their wants may view,
 The learn'd reflect on what before they knew:

TH E land that answers best the farmer's care,
And silvers to maturity the Hop:
When to inhume the plants; to turn the glebe;
And wed the tendrils to th' aspiring poles:
Under what sign to pluck the crop, and how 5
To cure, and in capacious sacks infold,
I teach in verse Miltonian. Smile the muse,
And meditate an honour to that land
Where first I breath'd, and struggled into life
Impatient, Cantium, to be call'd thy son. 10

Oh! cou'd I emulate Dan Sydney's muse,
Thy Sydney, Cantium----He from court retir'd
In Penshurst's sweet elysium sung delight,
Sung transport to the soft-responding streams
Of Medway, and enliven'd all her groves: 15
While

While ever near him, goddess of the green,
 Fair* Pembroke sat, and smil'd immense applause.
 With vocal fascination charm'd the † Hours
 Unguarded left Heav'ns adamant gate,
 And to his lyre, swift as the winged sounds 20
 That skim the air, danc'd unperceiv'd away.
 Had I such pow'r, no peasants toil, no hops
 Shou'd e'er debase my lay : far nobler themes,
 The high achievements of thy warrior kings
 Shou'd raise my thoughts, and dignify my song. 25
 But I, young rustic, dare not leave my cot,
 For so enlarg'd a sphere--ah! muse beware,
 Lest the loud larums of the braying trump,
 Lest the deep drum shou'd drown thy tender reed,
 And mar its puny joints: me, lowly swain, 30
 Every unshaven arboret, me the lawns,
 Me the voluminous Medway's silver wave,

All Europe's kings: or in fair * Madum's vale
 Imparadis'd, blest denizons, ye dwell ;
 Or † Dorovernia's awful tow'rs ye love: 40
 Or plough Tunbridgia's salutiferous hills
 Industrious, and with draughts chalybate heal'd,
 Confess divine Hygeia's blissful feat ;
 The muse demands your presence, ere she tune
 Her monitory voice; observe her well, 45
 And catch the wholesome dictates as they fall.

'Midst thy paternal acres, Farmer, say
 Has gracious heav'n bestow'd one field, that basks
 Its loamy bosom in the mid-day sun,
 Emerging gently from the abject vale, 50
 Nor yet obnoxious to the wind, secure
 There shall thou plant thy hop. This soil, perhaps,
 Thou'lt say, will fill my garners. Be it so.
 But Ceres, rural goddess, at the best
 Meanly supports her vot'ry', enough for her, 55
 If ill-persuading hunger she repell,
 And keep the soul from fainting: to enlarge,
 To glad the heart, to sublimate the mind,
 And wing the flagging spirits to the sky,
 Require th' united influence and aid 60
 Of Bacchus, God of hops, with Ceres join'd

† Canterbury.

'Tis he shall gen'rate the buxom beer.
 Then on one pedestel, and hand in hand,
 Sculptur'd in Parian stone (so gratitude
 Indites) let the divine co-part'ners rise. 65
 Stands eastward in thy field a wood? 'tis well.
 Esteem it as a bulwark of thy wealth,
 And cherish all its branches; tho' we'll grant,
 Its leaves umbrageous may intercept
 The morning rays, and envy some small share 70
 Of Sol's beneficence to the infant germ.
 Yet grutch not that: when whistling Eurus comes,
 With all his worlds of insects in thy lands.
 To hyemate, and monarchize o'er all.
 Thy vegetable riches, then thy wood 75
 Shall ope it's arms expansive, and embrace
 The storm reluctant, and divert its rage.
 Armies of animalc'les urge their way
 In vain: the ventilating trees oppose
 Their airy march. They blacken distant plains. 80

This site for thy young nursery obtain'd,
 Thou hast begun auspicious, if the soil
 (As sung before) be loamy; this the hop
 Loves above others, this is rich, is deep,
 Is viscous, and tenacious of the pole. 85
 Yet maugre all its native worth, it may
 Be meliorated with warm compost. See!

Yon

* Yon craggy mountain, whose fastidious head,
 Divides the star-set hemisphere above,
 And Cantium's plains beneath; the Appennine
 Of a free Italy, whose chalky fides
 With verdant shrubs dissimilarly gay,
 Still captivate the eye, while at his feet
 The silver Medway glides, and in her breast
 Views the reflected landskip, charm'd she views
 And murmurs louder ecstacy below. 90
 Here let us rest awhile, pleas'd to behold
 Th' all-beautiful horizon's wide expanse,
 Far as the eagle's ken. Here tow'ring spires
 First catch the eye, and turn the thoughts to heav'n. 100
 The lofty elms in humble majesty
 Bend with the breeze to shade the solemn groves,
 And spread an holy darkness; Ceres there
 Shines in her golden vesture. Here the meads
 Enrich'd by Flora's dædal hand, with pride
 Expose their spotted verdure. Nor are you
 Pomona absent; you 'midst th' hoary leaves
 Swell the vermilion cherry; and on yon trees
 Suspend the pippen's palatable gold.
 There old Sylvanus in that moss-grown grot 110
 Dwells with his wood-nymphs: they with chaplets green
 And russet mantles oft bedight, aloft

* Boxley-Hill, which extends through great part of Kent.

From yon bent oaks, in Medway's bosom fair
 Wonder at silver bleak, and prickly pearch,
 That swiftly thro' their floating forests glide. 115
 Yet not even these—these ever-varied scenes
 Of wealth and pleasure can engage my eyes
 T' o'erlook the lowly hawthorn, if from thence
 The thrush, sweet warbler, chants th' unstudied lays
 Which Phœbus' self vaulting from yonder cloud 120
 Refulgent, with enliv'ning ray inspires.
 But neither tow'ring spires, nor lofty elms,
 Nor golden Ceres, nor the meadows green,
 Nor orchats, nor the russet-mantled nymphs,
 Which to the murmurs of the Medway dance, 125
 Nor sweetly warbling thrush, with half those charms
 Attract my eyes, as yonder hop-land close,
 Joint-work of art and nature, which reminds
 The muse, and to her theme the wand'rer calls.

Here then with pond'rous vehicles and teams 130
 Thy rustics send, and from the caverns deep
 Command them bring the chalk: thence to the kiln
 Convey, and temper with Vulcanian fires.
 Soon as 'tis form'd, thy lime with bounteous hand
 O'er all thy lands disseminate; thy lands 135
 Which first have felt the soft'ning spade, and drank
 The strength'ning vapours from nutritious marl.

This

This done, select the choicest hop, t' insert
 Fresh in the opening glebe. Say then, my muse,
 Its various kinds, and from th' effete and vile, 140
 The eligible separate with care.

The noblest species is by Kentish wights
 The Master-hop yclep'd. Nature to him
 Has giv'n a stouter stalk, patient of cold,
 Or Phœbus ev'n in youth, his verdant blood 145
 In brisk saltation circulates and flows

Indefinently vigorous: the next
 Is arid, fetid, infecund, and gross
 Significantly styl'd the Fryar: the last
 Is call'd the Savage, who in ev'ry wood, 150
 And ev'ry hedge un introduc'd intrudes.

When such the merit of the candidates,
 Easy is the election; but, my friend
 Would'st thou ne'er fail, to Kent direct thy way,
 Where no one shall be frustrated that seeks 155
 Ought that is great or good. * Hail, Cantium, hail
 Illustrious parent of the finest fruits,
 Illustrious parent of the best of men!

Placidly

Placidly stagnant at their fountain head, 165
 I rashly dare to trouble (if from thence,
 If ought for thy util'ty I can drain)
 And in thy towns adopt th' Ascræan muse.
 Hail heroes, hail invaluable gems,
 Splendidly rough within your native mines, 165
 To luxury unrefined, better far
 To shake with unbought agues in your weald,
 Than dwell a slave to passion and to wealth,
 Politely paralytic in the town!
 Fav'rites of heav'n! to whom the general doom 170
 Is all remitted, who alone possess
 Of Adam's sons fair Eden—rest ye here,
 Nor seek an earthly good above the hop;
 A good! untasted by your ancient kings,
 And almost to your very fires unknown. 175

In those blest days when great Eliza reign'd
 O'er the adoring nation, when fair peace
 Or spread an unstain'd olive round the land,
 Or laurell'd war did teach our winged fleets
 To lord it o'er the world, when our brave fires 180
 Drank valour from uncauponated beer;
 Then th' hop (before an interdicted plant,
 Shun'd like fell aconite) began to hang
 Its folded floscles from the golden vine,
 And bloom'd a shade to Cantium's sunny shores 145

Delightful, and in chearful goblets laught
Potent, what time Aquarius' urn impends
To kill the dulsome day—potent to quench.

The Syrian ardour, and autumnal ill

To heal with mild potations; sweeter far 190

Than those which erst the subtle * Hengist mix'd

T' inthral voluptuous Vortigern. He, with love

Emafcuate and wine, the toils of war,

Neglected, and to dalliance vile and sloth

Emancipated, saw th' incroaching Saxons

195

With unaffected eyes; his hand which ought

T' have shock the spear of justice, soft and smooth,

Play'd ravishing divisions on the lyre:

This Hengist mark'd, and (for curs'd insolence

Soon fattens on impunity! and becomes 200

Briareus from a dwarf) fair Thanet gain'd.

Nor stopt he here; but to immense attempts

Ambition sky-aspiring led him on

Adventrous. He an only daughter rear'd,

Roxena, matchless maid! nor rear'd in vain.

205

Her eagle-ey'd callidity, grave deceit,

And fairy fiction rais'd above her sex;

And furnish'd her with thousand various wiles

Preposterous, more than female; wondrous fair.

* See the following story told at large in Lambard's perambulation of Kent.

She was, and docile, which her pious nurse 210
 Observ'd, and early in each female fraud
 Her 'gan initiate; well she knew to smile,
 Whene'er vexation gall'd her; did she weep?
 'Twas not sincere, the fountains of her eyes
 Play'd artificial streams, yet so well forc'd 215
 They look'd like nature; for ev'n art to her
 Was natural, and contrarieties
 Seem'd in Roxena congruous and allied.
 Such was she, when brisk Vortigern beheld,
 Ill-fated prince! and lov'd her. She perceiv'd, 220
 Soon she perceiv'd her conquest; soon she told,
 With hasty joy transported, her old fire.
 The Saxon inly smil'd, and to his isle
 The willing prince invited, but first bad
 The nymph prepare the potions; such as fire 225
 The blood's meand'ring rivulets, and depress
 To love the soul. Lo! at the noon of night
 Thrice Hecate invok'd the maid---and thrice
 The goddess stoop'd assent; forth from a cloud
 She stoop'd, and gave the philters pow'r to charm. 230
 These in a splendid cup of burnish'd gold
 The lovely sorcerers mix'd, and to the prince
 Health, peace, and joy propin'd, but to herself
 Mutter'd dire exorcisms, and wish'd effect
 To th' love-creating draught: lowly she bow'd 235
 Fawning insinuation bland, that might

Deceive

The HOP-GARDEN.

113

Deceive Laertes' son; her lucid orbs
Shed copiously the oblique rays; her face
Like modest Luna's shone, but not so pale,
And with no borrow'd lustre; on her brow 240
Smil'd Fallacy, while summoning each grace,
Kneeling she gave the cup. The prince (for who!
Who cou'd have spurn'd a suppliant so divine?)
Drank eager, and in ecstasy devour'd
Th' ambrosial perturbation; mad with love 245
He clasp'd her, and in Hymeneal bands
At once the nymph demanded and obtain'd.
Now Hengist, all his ample wish fulfill'd,
Exulted; and from Kent th' uxorious prince
Exterminated, and usurp'd his seat. 250
Long did he reign; but all-devouring time
Has raz'd his palace walls---Perchance on them
Grows the green hop, and o'er his crumbled bust
In spiral twines ascends the scancile pole.---
But now to plant, to dig, to dung, to weed; 255
Tasks how indelicate? demand the muse.

Come, fair magician, sportive Fancy come,
With thy unbounded imagery; child of thought,
From thy aerial citadel descend,
And (for thou canst) assist me. Bring with thee 260
Thy all-creative Talisman; with thee
The active spirits ideal, tow'ring flights,

Q

That

That bover o'er the muse-resounding groves,
 And all thy colourings, all thy shapes display.
 Thou to be here, Experience, so shall I 265
 My rules nor in low prose jejunely say,
 Nor in smooth numbers musically err;
 But vain is Fancy and Experience vain,
 If thou, O Hesiod! Virgil of our land,
 Or hear'st thou rather, Milton, bard divine, 270
 Whose greatness who shall imitate, save thee?
 If thou O * Philips fav'ring dost not hear
 Me, inexpert of verse; with gentle hand
 Uprear the unpinion'd muse, high on the top
 Of that immeasurable mount, that far 275
 Exceeds thine own Plinlimmon, where thou tun'st
 With Phœbus' self thy lyre. Give me to turn
 Th' unwieldly subject with thy graceful ease,
 Extol its baseness with thy art; but chief
 Illumine, and invigorate with thy fire. 280

When Phœbus looks thro' Aries on the spring,
 And vernal flow'rs promise the dulcet fruit,
 Autumnal pride! delay not then thy setts
 In Tellus' facile bosom to depose
 Timely: if thou art wise the bulkiest chuse: 285
 To every root three joints indulge, and form

The Quincunx with well regulated hills.
Soon from the dung-enriched earth, their heads
Thy young plants will uplift their virgin arms,
They'll stretch, and marriageable claim the pole. 290
Nor frustrate thou their wishes, so thou may'st
Expect an hopeful issue, jolly Mirth,
Sister of taleful Jocus, tuneful Song,
And fat Good-nature with her honest face.
But yet in the novitiate of their love, 295
And tenderness of youth suffice small shoots
Cut from the widow'd willow, nor provide
Poles insurmountable as yet. 'Tis then
When twice bright Phœbus' vivifying ray,
Twice the cold touch of winter's icy hand, 300
They've felt; 'tis then we sell sublimer props.
'Tis then the sturdy woodman's axe from far
Resounds, resounds, and hark! with hollow groans
Down tumble the big trees, and rushing roll
O'er the crush'd crackling brake, while in his cave 305
Forlorn; dejected, 'midst the weeping dryads
Laments Sylvanus for his verdant care.
The ash, or willow for thy use select,
Or storm-enduring chestnut; but the oak
Unfit for this employ, for nobler ends 310
Reserve untouch'd; she when by time matur'd,
Capacious, of some British demi-god,
Vernon, or Warren, shall with rapid wing

Infuriate, like Jove's armour-bearing bird,
 Fly on thy foes; They, like the parted waves, 315
 Which to the brazen beak murmuring give way
 Amaz'd, and roaring from the fight recede.—
 In that sweet month, when to the list'ning swains
 Fair Philomel sings love, and every cot
 With garlands blooms bedight, with bandage meet 320
 The tendrils bind, and to the tall pole tie,
 Else soon, too soon their meretricious arms
 Round each ignoble clod they'll fold, and leave
 Averse the lordly prop. Thus, have I heard
 Where there's no mutual tye, no strong connection 325
 Of love-conspiring hearts, oft the young bride
 Has prostituted to her slaves her charms,
 While the infatuated lord admires
 * Fresh-budding sprouts, and issue not his own.
 Now turn the glebe: soon with correcting hand 330
 When smiling June in jocund dance leads on Long days and happy hours, from ev'ry vine
 Dock the redundant branches, and once more
 With the sharp spade thy numerous acres till.
 The shovel next must lend its aid, enlarge 335
 The little hillocks, and erase the weeds.
 This in that month its title which derives

* Miraturque novas frondes, & non sua poma.

From great Augustus' ever sacred name!
 Sovereign of Science! master of the Muse!
 Neglected Genius' firm ally! Of worth
 Best judge, and best rewarder, whose applause
 To bards was fame and fortune! O! 'twas well,
 Well did you too in this, all glorious heroes!
 Ye Romans!—on Time's wing you've stamp'd his praise,
 And time shall bear it to eternity.

340

345

Now are our lab'ours crown'd with their reward,
 Now bloom the florid hops, and in the stream
 Shine in their floating silver, while above
 T'embow'ring branches culminate, and form.
 A walk impervious to the sun; the poles
 In comely order stand; and while you cleave
 With the small skiff the Medway's lucid wave,
 In comely order still their ranks preserve,
 And seem to march along th' extensive plain:
 In neat arrangement thus the men of Kent,
 With native oak at once adorn'd and arm'd,
 Intrepid march'd; for well they knew the cries
 Of dying Liberty, and Astræa's voice,
 Who as she fled, to echoing woods complain'd:
 Of tyranny, and William; like a god,
 Refulgent stood the conqueror, on his troops.
 He sent his looks enliv'ning as the sun's,
 But on his foes frown'd agony, frown'd death.

355

360

On.

On his left side in bright emblazonry
 His falchion burn'd; forth from his sevenfold shield 365
 A basilisk shot adamant; his brow
 Wore clouds of fury!—on that with plumage-crown'd
 Of various hue sat a tremendous cone:
 Thus sits high-canopied above the clouds,
 Terrific beauty of nocturnal skies, 370
 * Northern Aurora; she thro' th' azure air
 Shoots, shoots her trem'lous rays in painted streaks
 Continual, while waving to the wind
 O'er Night's dark veil her lucid tresses flow.
 The trav'ler views th' unseasonable day 375
 Astound, the proud bend lowly to the earth,
 The pious matrons tremble for the world.
 But what can daunt th' insuperable souls
 Of Cantium's matchless sons? On they proceed,
 All innocent of fear; each face express'd 380
 Contemptuous admiration, while they view'd
 The well-fed brigades of embroider'd slaves
 That drew the sword for gain. First of the van,
 With an enormous bough, a shepherd swain
 Whistled with rustic notes; but such as show'd 385
 A heart magnanimous: The men of Kent

* Aurora Borealis, or lights in the air; a phenomenon which of late years has been very frequent here, and in all the more northern countries.

The HOP-GARDEN.

Follow the tuneful swain, while o'er their heads
 The green leaves whisper, and the big boughs bend.
 'Twas thus the Thracian, whose all-quick'ning lyre
 The floods inspir'd, and taught the rocks to feel, 390
 Play'd before dancing Hæmus, to the tune,
 The lute's soft tune! The flutt'ring branches wave,
 The rocks enjoy it, and the rivulets hear,
 The hillocks skip, emerge the humble vales,
 And all the mighty mountain-nods applause. 395
 The conqueror view'd them, and as one that sees
 The vast abrupt of Scylla, or as one
 That from th' oblivious Lethæan streams
 Has drank eternal apathy, he stood.
 His host an universal panic seiz'd 400
 Prodigious, inopine; their armour shook,
 And clatter'd to the trembling of their limbs;
 Some to the walking wilderness gan-run
 Confus'd, and in th' inhospitable shade
 For shelter sought—Wretches! they shelter find, 405
 Eternal shelter in the arms of death!
 Thus when Aquarius pours out all his urn
 Down on some lonesome heath, the traveller
 That wanders o'er the wint'ry waste, accepts
 The invitation of some spreading beech 410
 Joyous; but soon the treach'rous gloom betrays
 Th' unwary visitor, while on his head
 Th' enlarging drops in double show'rs descend.

And!

And now no longer in disguise the men
Of Kent appear; down they all drop their boughs, 415
And shine in brazen panoply divine.
Enough—Great William (for full well he knew How vain would be the contest) to the sons
Of glorious Cantium, gave their lives, and laws,
And liberties secure, and to the prowess 420
Of Kentish wights, like Cæsar, deign'd to yield.
Cæsar and William! Hail immortal worthies,
Illustrious vanquish'd! Cantium, if to them,
Posterity will all her chiefs unborn,
Ought similar, ought second has to boast. 425
Once more (so prophecies the Muse) thy sons
Shall triumph, emulous of their fires—till then
With olive, and with hop-land garlands crown'd,
O'er all thy land reign Plenty, reign fair Peace.

AT length the Muse her destin'd task resumes
With joy; agen o'er all her hop-land groves
She longs t' expatiate free of wing. Long while
For a much-loving, much-lov'd youth she wept,
And sorrow'd silence o'er th' untimely urn. 5
Hush then, effeminate fobs; and thou, my heart,
Rebel to grief no more---And yet a while,
A little while, indulge the friendly tears.
O'er the wild world, like Noah's dove, in vain
I seek the olive peace, around me wide 10
See! see! the wat'ry waste---In vain, forlorn
I call the Phoenix fair Sincerity;
Alas!--extinguish'd to the skies she fled,
And left no heir behind her. Where is now
Th' eternal smile of goodness? Where is now 15

That all-extensive charity of soul,
 So rich in sweetness, that the classic sounds
 In elegance Augustan cloath'd, the wit
 That flow'd perennial, hardly were observ'd,
 Or, if observ'd, set off a brighter gem. 20
 How oft, and yet how seldom did it seem!
 Have I enjoy'd his converse?---When we met,
 The hours how swift they sweetly fled, and till
 Agen I saw him, how they loiter'd. Oh!
 * THEOPHILUS, thou dear departed soul,
 What flattering tales thou told'st me? How thou'dst hail
 My Muse, and took'st imaginary walks
 All in my hopland groves! Stay yet, oh stay!
 Thou dear deluder, thou hast seen but half---
 He's gone! and ought that's equal to his praise 30
 Fame has not for me, tho' she prove most kind.
 Howe'er this verse be sacred to thy name,
 These tears, the last sad duty of a friend.
 Oft I'll indulge the pleasurable pain
 Of recollection; oft on Medway's banks 35
 I'll muse on thee full pensive; while her streams
 Regardful ever of my grief, shall flow
 In sullen silence silverly along.
 The weeping shores---or else accordant with
 My loud laments, shall ever and anon 40
 Make melancholy music to the shades,

The hopland shades, that on her banks expose
Serpentine vines and flowing locks of gold.

Ye smiling nymphs, th' inseparable train
Of saffron Ceres; ye, that gamesome dance, 45
And sing to jolly Autumn, while he stands
With his right hand poizing the scales of heav'n,
And with his left grasps Amalthea's horn :
Young chorus of fair bacchanals, descend,
And leave a while the sickle; yonder hill, 50
Where stand the loaded hop-poles, claims your care.
There mighty Bacchus stradling cros the bin,
Waits your attendance---There he glad reviews
His paunch, approaching to immensity
Still nearer, and wjth pride of heart surveys 55
Obedient mortals, and the world his own.
See! from the great metropolis they rush,
Th' industrious vulgar. They, like prudent bees,
In Kent's wide garden roam, expert to crop
The flow'ry hop, and provident to work, 60
Ere winter numb their sunburnt hands, and winds
Engoal them, murmuring in their gloomy cells.
From these, such as appear the rest t' excell
In strength and young agility, select.
These shall support with vigour and address 65
The bin-man's weighty office; now extract
From the sequacious earth the pole, and now

Unmarry

Unmarry from the closely clinging vine.
 O'er twice three pickers, and no more, extend
 The bin-man's sway; unless thy ears can bear 70
 The crack of poles continual, and thine eyes
 Behold unmoved the hurrying peasant tear
 Thy wealth, and throw it on the thankless ground:
 But first the careful planter will consult
 His quantity of acres, and his crop, 75
 How many and how large his kilns; and then
 Proportion'd to his wants the hands provide.
 But yet, of greater consequence and cost,
 One thing remains unsung, a man of faith
 And long experience, in whose thund'ring voice 80
 Lives hoarse authority, potent to quell
 The frequent frays of the tumultuous crew.
 He shall preside o'er all thy hop-land store,
 Severe dictator! His unerring hand,
 And eye inquisitive, in heedful guise, 85
 Shall to the brink the measure fill, and fair
 On the twin registers the work record.
 And yet, I've known them own a female reign,

The lofty poles from ruin, and sustain'd,
 Like ANNA, or ELIZA, her domain,
 With more than manly dignity. Oft I've seen, 95
 Ev'n at her frown the boist'rous uproar cease,
 And the mad pickers, tam'd to diligence,
 Cull from the bin the sprawling sprigs, and leaves
 That stain the sample, and its worth debase.
 All things thus settled and prepared, what now 100
 Can let the planters purposes? Unless
 The Heav'ns frown dissent, and ominous winds
 Howl thro' the concave of the troubled sky.
 And oft, alas! the long experienc'd wights
 (Oh! could they too prevent them) storms foresee. 105

Obfuit. Aut illum surgentem vallibus imis
 Aëriæ fugere grues: aut bucula cœlum
 Suspiciens, patulis captavit naribus auras:
 Aut arguta lacus circumvolitavit hirundo:
 Et veterem in limo ranæ cecinere querelam.
 Sæpius & tectis penetralibus extulit ova
 Angustum formica terens iter, & bibit ingens
 Arcus & e pastu decedens agmine magno
 Corvorum increpuit densis exercitus alis.
 Jam varias pelagi volucres, & quæ Aſia circum
 Dulcibus in stagnis rimantur prata Caystri,
 Certatim largos humeris infundere rores;
 Nunc caput objectare fretis, nunc currere in undas,
 Et studio incassum videas gestire lavandi.
 Tum cornix plena pluviam vocat improba voce,
 Et sola in sicca secum spatatur arena.
 Nec nocturna quidem carpentes pensa puellæ
 Nescivere hycem.

Fly

Fly the fleet wild-geese far away, or else
 The heifer towards the zeinth rears her head,
 And with expanded nostrils snuffs the air:
 The swallows too their airy circuits weave, 110
 And screaming skim the brook; and fen-bred frogs
 Forth from their hoarse throats their old grutch recite:
 Or from her earthly coverlets the ant
 Heaves her huge eggs along the narrow way:
 Or bends Thaumantia's variegated bow 115
 Athwart the cope of heav'n: or sable crows
 Obstreperous of wing, in crouds combine:
 Besides, unnumber'd troops of birds marine,
 And Asia's feather'd flocks, that in the muds
 Of flow'ry-edg'd Cayster wont to prey, 120
 Now in the shallows duck their speckled heads,
 And lust to lave in vain, their unctious plumes
 Repulsive baffle their efforts: Next hark.
 How the curs'd raven, with her harmful voice,
 Invokes the rain, and croaking to herself,
 Struts on some spacious solitary shore. 125
 Nor want thy servants and thy wife at home
 Signs to presage the show'r; for in the hall
 Sheds Niobe her precious tears, and warns
 Beneath thy leaden tubes to fix the vase,
 And catch the falling dew-drops, which supply 130
 Soft water and salubrious, far the best
 To soak thy hops, and brew thy generous beer.
But

The HOP-GARDEN.

129

But tho' bright Phœbus smile, and in the skies
The purple-rob'd serenity appear;
Tho' every cloud be fled, yet if the rage
Of Boreas, or the blasting East prevail,
The planter has enough to check his hopes,
And in due bounds confine his joy; for see
The ruffian winds, in their abrupt career,
Leave not a hop behind, or at the best
Mangle the circling vine, and intercept
The juice nutritious: Fatal means, alas!
Their colour and condition to destroy.
Haste then, ye peasants; pull the poles, the hops;
Where are the bins? Run, run, ye nimble maids,
Move ev'ry muscle, ev'ry nerve extend,
To save our crop from ruin, and ourselves.

135

146

Soon as bright Chanticleer explodes the night
With flutt'ring wings, and hymns the new-born day,
The bugle-horn inspire, whose clam'rous bray
Shall rouse from sleep the rebel rout, and tune
To temper for the labours of the day.
Wisely the several stations of the bins
By lot determine. Justice this, and this Fair Prudence does demand; for not without
A certain method cou'dst thou rule the mob
Irrational, nor every where alike
Fair hangs the hop to tempt the picker's hand.

150

155

Now see the crew mechanic might and main
 Labour with lively diligence, inspir'd 160
 By appetite of gain and lust of praise :
 What mind so petty, servile, and debas'd,
 As not to know ambition ? Her great sway
 From Colin Clout to Emperors she exerts.
 To err is human, human to be vain. 165
 'Tis vanity, and mock desire of fame,
 That prompts the rustic, on the steeple-top
 Sublime, to mark the outlines of his shoe,
 And in the area to engrave his name.
 With pride of heart the churchwarden surveys, 170
 High o'er the bellfry, girt with birds and flow'rs,
 His story wrote in capitals: " 'Twas I
 " That bought the font ; and I repair'd the pews."
 With pride like this the emulating mob
 Strive for the mastery---who first may fill 175
 The bellying bin, and cleanest cull the hops.
 Nor ought retards, unless invited out
 By Sol's declining, and the evening's calm,
 Leander leads Lætitia to the scene
 Of shade and fragrance---Then th' exulting band 180
 Of pickers male and female, seize the fair
 Reluctant, and with boist'rous force and brute,
 By cries unmov'd, they bury her in the bin.
 Nor does the youth escape---him too they seize,
 And in such posture place as best may serve 185
 To

To hide his charmer's blushes. Then with shouts
They rend the echoing air, and from them both
(So custom has ordain'd) a large's claim.

Thus much be sung of picking---next succeeds
Th' important care of curing---Quit the field, 190
And at the kiln th' instructive muse attend.

On your hair-cloth eight inches deep, nor more,
Let the green hops lie lightly; next expand
The smoothest surface with the toothy rake. 195
Thus for is just above; but more it boots
That charcoal flames burn equably below,
The charcoal flames, which from thy corded wood,
Or antiquated poles, with wond'rous skill,
The fable priests of Vulcan shall prepare. 200
Constant and moderate let the heat ascend;
Which to effect, there are, who with success
Place in the kiln the ventilating fan.
Hail, learned, useful * man! whose head and heart
Conspire to make us happy, deign t' accept 205
One honest verse; and if thy industry
Has serv'd the hopland cause, the Muse forebodes
This sole invention, both in use and fame,
The † mystic fan of Bacchus shall exceed.

* Dr. Hales.

† Mystica Vannus Iacchi.

VIRG. GEOR. I.

When the fourth hour expires, with careful hand
 The half-bak'd hops turn over. Soon as time 211
 Has well exhausted twice two glasses more,
 They'll leap and crackle with their bursting seeds,
 For use domestic, or for sale mature.

There are, who in the choice of cloth t'enfold 215
 Their wealthy crop, the viler, coarser sort,
 With prodigal œconomy prefer :
 All that is good is cheap, all dear that's base.
 Besides, the planter shou'd a bait prepare,
 T' intrap the chapman's notice, and divert 220
 Shrewd Observation from her busy pry.

When in the bag thy hops the rustic treads,
 Let him wear heel-less sandals ; nor presume
 Their fragrancy barefooted to defile :
 Such filthy ways for slaves in Malaga 225
 Leave we to practise---Whence I've often seen,
 When beautiful Dorinda's iv'ry hands
 Had built the pastry-fabric (food divine
 For Christmas gambols and the hour of mirth)
 As the dry'd foreign fruit, with piercing eye, 230
 She cull'd suspicious---lol she starts, she frowns
 With indignation at a negro's nail.

Should'st thou thy harvest for the mart design,
 Be thine own factor ; nor employ those drones 234
 Who've

Who've stings, but make no honey, selfish slaves !
That thrive and fatten on the planter's toil.

What then remains unsung ? unless the care
To stack thy poles oblique in comely cones,
Left rot or rain destroy them---'Tis a sight 240
Most seemly to behold, and gives, O Winter !
A landskip not unpleasing ev'n to thee.

And now, ye rivals of the hopland state,
Madum and Dorovernia rejoice,
How great amidst such rivals to excel ! 245
Let * Grenovicum boast (for boast she may)
The birth of great Eliza,---Hail, my queen !
And yet I'll call thee by a dearer name,
My countrywoman, hail ! Thy worth alone
Gives fame to worlds, and makes whole ages glorious !

Let Sevenoaks vaunt the hospitable seat 251
Of † Knoll most ancient : Awefully, my Muse,
These social scenes of grandeur and delight,
Of love and veneration, let me tread.
How oft beneath yon oak has amorous Prior 255
Awaken'd Echo with sweet Chloe's name !
While noble Sackville heard, hearing approv'd,

* Greenwich, where Q. Elizabeth was born.

† The seat of the Duke of Dorset.

Approving, greatly recompens'd. But he,
 Alas ! has number'd with th' illustrious dead,
 And orphan merit has no guardian now ! 260

Next Shipbourne, tho' her precincts are confin'd
 To narrow limits, yet can shew a train
 Of village beauties, pastorally sweet,
 And rurally magnificent. Here * Fairlawn
 Ope her delightful prospects : Dear Fairlawn
 There, where at once at variance and agreed, 265
 Nature and art hold dalliance. There where rills
 Kiss the green drooping herbage, there where trees,
 The tall trees tremble at th' approach of heav'n,
 And bow their salutation to the sun,
 Who fosters all their foliage---These are thine, 270
 Yes, little Shipbourne, boast that these are thine---
 And if---But oh !---and if 'tis no disgrace,
 The birth of him who now records thy praise.

Nor shalt thou, Mereworth, remain unfung,
 Where noble Westmoreland, his country's friend, 275
 Bids British greatness love the silent shade,
 Where piles superb, in classic elegance,
 Arise, and all is Roman, like his heart.

Nor Chatham, tho' it is not thine to shew
 The lofty forest or the verdant lawns, 280

* The seat of Lord Vane.

The HOP-GARDEN.

135

Yet niggard silence shall not grutch thee praise.
The lofty forests by thy sons prepar'd
Becomes the warlike navy, braves the floods,
And gives Sylvanus empire in the main.
Oh that Britannia, in the day of war, 285
Wou'd not alone Minerva's valour trust,
But also hear her wisdom ! Then her oaks
Shap'd by her own mechanics, wou'd alone
Her island fortify, and fix her fame ;
Nor wou'd she weep, like Rachael, for her sons, 290
Whose glorious blood, in mad profusion,
In foreign lands is shed---and shed in vain.

Now on fair Dover's topmost cliff I'll stand,
And look with scorn and triumph on proud France.
Of yore an isthmus jutting from this coast, 295
Join'd the Britannic to the Gallic shore ;
But Neptune on a day, with fury fir'd,
Rear'd his tremendous trident, smote the earth,
And broke th' unnatural union at a blow.---
" 'Twixt you and you, my servants and my sons, 300
" Be there (he cried) eternal discord---France
" Shall bow the neck to Cantium's peerless offspring,
" And as the oak reigns lordly o'er the shrub,
" So shall the hop have homage from the vine."

VOYAGE to the PLANETS.

Translated by the Rev. Mr. FAWKES, A. M.

SAY, what uncommon cares disturb my rest,
 And kindle raptures foreign to my breast ?
 From earth's low confines lift my mind on high,
 To trace new worlds revolving in the sky?
 Yes—I'm impatient of this orb of clay, 5
 And boldly dare to meditate my way,
 Where Fontinelle first saw the planets roll,
 And all the God tumultuous shakes my soul.

'Tis He ! He comes ! and thro' the sun-bright skies
 Drives foaming Pegasus, and thus he cries : 10
 " Cease, cease, dear youth, too studiously employ'd,
 " And wing with me the unresisting void ;
 " 'Tis thine with me round other worlds to soar,
 " And visit kingdoms never known before ;
 " While I succinctly shew each various race, 15
 " The manners and the genius of the place."

 Thinks on Bellerophon, and shudders at the thought)

Soft breathes the air ; fair Flora paints the ground,
 And laughing Ceres deals her gifts around. 45
 This blissful Tempe no rough blasts molest,
 Of blust'ring Boreas, or the baleful East ;
 But gentle Zephyrs o'er the woodlands stray,
 Court the tall trees, and round the branches play,
 Ætherial gales dispensing as they flow, 50
 To fan those passions which they teach to glow.
 Here the gay youth in measur'd steps advance,
 While sprightly music animates the dance ;
 There the sweet melody of sound admire,
 Sigh with the song, or languish to the lyre : 55
 Fair nymphs and amorous youths, a lovely band,
 Blend in the dance, light-bounding hand in hand.
 From ev'ry grove the buxom Zephyrs bring
 The rich ambrosia of eternal spring.
 Care dwells not here, their pleasures to destroy, 60
 But Laughter, Jest, and universal joy :
 All, all is love ; for Venus reigns confest
 The sole sultana of each captive breast :
 Cold Cynthia here wou'd Cupid's victim prove, }
 Or the chaste daughter of imperial Jove, } 65
 And Cato's virtue be the slave of love.

But now thro' destin'd fields of air we fly,
 And leave those mansions, not without a sigh :

Sed brevis exercet : parat illi fata veneno

Per-

Thence the dire coast we reach, the dreary plains,
Where Mars, grim god, and bloody discord reigns. 70
The host in arms embattled sternly stands,
The sword, the dart, the dagger, in their hands.
Here no fair nymphs to silver sounds advance,
But buskin'd heroes form the Pyrrhic dance.
And brazen trumpets, terrible from far, 75
With martial music fire the soul to war.
Here the lone bride bewails her absent lord,
The sterile nuptials, the deserted board,
Sighs the long nights; and, frantic with despair,
Beats her bare breast, and rends her flowing hair: 80
In vain she sighs, in vain dissolves in tears—
In sleep, perhaps, the warrior lord appears,
A fleeting form that glides before her sight,
A momentary vision of the night.
Mean while, regardless of her anxious pray'r, 85
The hardy husband sternly stalks to war;
Our ears the clang of ringing armour rends,
And the immortal battle never ends.

Hence thro' the boundless void we nimbly move,
And reach the wide-extended plains of Jove. 90
Here the stern tyrant sways an iron rod;
A thousand vassals tremble at his nod.
How short the period of a tyrant's date!
The pois'nous phial speeds the work of fate:

146 Datur MUNDORUM PLURALITAS.

Scarce is the proud, imperious tyrant dead,
But, lo ! a second lords it in his stead. 95

Here peace, as common merchandize, is sold,
Heav'n's first best blessing for pernicious gold :
War soon succeeds, the sturdy squadrons stand
Wide o'er the fields a formidable band ; 100

With num'rous fleets they crowd the groaning main,
And triumph for the victories they feign :
Again in strict alliances unite,
Till discord raise again the phantom of a fight ; 105

Again they sail ; again the troops prepare
Their falchions for the mockery of war.
The son inhuman seeks his father's life,
The slave his master's, and her lord's the wife.
With vengeance thus their kindling bosoms fire, 110
Since Jove usurp'd the sceptre of his fire.
Thence poisons, perjuries, and bribes betray ;
Nor other passions do their souls obey
'Than thirst of gold, and avarice of sway. }

At length we land, vast fields of æther coast, 115
On Saturn's cold uncomfortable coast ;
Here in the gloom the pamper'd sluggards lull
The lazy hours, lethargically dull.
In caves they live ; for who was ever known
So wise, so sedulous to build a town ?

Four monstrous shapes before the portal wait,
Of horrid aspect, centry to the gate : 45
Lo ! in the entrance, with disdainful eye,
In Logick's dark disguise, stands Sophistry :
Her very front would common sense confound,
Encompass'd with ten categories round :
She from Old Matter, the great mother, came, 50
By birth the eldest---and how like the dame !
Her shrivel'd skin, small eyes, prodigious pate,
Denote her shrewd, and subtle in debate :
This hand a net, and that sustains a club,
T' entangle her antagonist, or drub. 55
The spider's toils, all o'er her garment spread,
Imply the mazy errors of her head.
Behold her marching with funereal pace,
Slow as old Saturn rolls thro' boundless space,
Slow as the mighty mountains mov'd along, 60
When Orpheus rais'd the lyre-attended song :
Or, as at Oxford, on some Gaudy day,
Fat Beadles, in magnificent array,
With big round bellies bear the pond'rous treat,
And heavily lag on, with the vast load of meat. 65

The next, mad Matheſis; her feet all bare,
Ungirt, untrim'd, with dissoluted hair :
No foreign object can her thoughts disjoint ;
Reclin'd she sits, and ponders o'er a point.

O! let the Polypus be wafted o'er;
How will the hollow dome of Dulness ring,
With what loud joy receive the wond'rous thing? 100
Applause will rend the skies, and all around
The quivering quagmires bellow back the sound;
How will Microphile her joy attest,
And glow with warmer raptures than the rest?
This will the curious crocodile excell, 105
The weaving worm, and silver-shining shell;
No object e'er will wake her wonder thus
As Polypus, her darling Polypus.

Dulness her fire, and Atheism is her name;
In her no glimpse of sacred Sense appears, 115
Depriv'd of eyes, and destitute of ears:

And blasts the world with air-infecting lungs.

MECHANICAL SOLUTION

OF THE

PROPAGATION of YAWNING.

Translated by the same Hand.

WHEN Pallas issued from the brain of Jove,
 Momus, the Mimic of the Gods above,
 In his mock mood impertinently spoke,
 About the birth, some low, ridiculous joke :
 Jove, sternly frowning, glow'd with vengeful ire, 5
 And thus indignant said th' Almighty Sire,
 " Loquacious Slave, that laugh'st without a cause,
 " Thou shalt conceive, and bring forth at thy jaws."
 He spoke---stretch'd in the hall the Mimic lies,
 Supinely dull, thick vapours dim his eyes : 10
 And as his jaws a horrid chasm disclose,
 It seem'd he made a trumpet of his nose ;
 Tho' harsh the strain, and horrible to hear,
 Like German jargon grating on the ear.

At length was Polychasmia brought to light, } 15
 Worthy her fire, a monster of a fight,
 Resembling her great grandmother, Old Night. }

Her eyes to open oft in vain she try'd,
 Lock'd were the lids, her mouth distended wide.
 Her when Prometheus happen'd to survey
 (Rival of Jove, that made mankind of clay)
 He form'd without the aid of heav'nly ray. } 20
 To three Lethæan cups he learnt to mix
 Deep sighs of virgins, with three blasts from Styx,
 The bray of asses, with the fat of brawn, 25
 The sleep-preceding groan, and hideous yawn.
 Thus Polychasmia took her wond'rous birth,
 A Goddess helpful to the sons of earth.

Lo! how the rustic multitude from far
 Haste to the town, and crowd the clam'rous bar. 30
 The prest bench groans with many a squire and knight,
 Who weigh out justice, and distribute right :
 Severe they seem, and formidably big,
 With front important, and huge periwig.
 The little villains skulk aloof dismay'd, 35
 And panic terrors seize the pregnant maid.
 But soon friend Polychasm', who always near,
 Herself had mingled with their morning beer,
 Steals to the judges brain, and centers there. }
 Then in the court the horrid yawn began, 40
 And Hum, profound and solemn, went from man to man :
 Silent they nod, and with prodigious strain
 Stretch out their arms, then listless yawn again :

Amidst their wranglings, is to gape the most : 45

Mounted on high, with serious care perplex'd, 50
The miserable preacher takes his text ;
Then into parts minute, with wondrous pain,
Divides, connects, and then divides again,
And does with grave obscurity explain :
While from his lips lean periods lingring creep, 55
And not one meaning interrupts their sleep,
The drowsy hearers stretch their weary jaws
With lamentable groan, and yawning gape applause.

The Quacks of Physic next provoke my ire,
Who falsely boast Hippocrates their sire : 60

All, all is gorg'd in magisterial maw;
Till at the last, observant of his word,
The lamentable waiter clears the board,
And inly-murmuring miserably groans,
To see the empty dish, and hear the sounding bones.

 How fairy Mab the junkets eat ;
 She was pinch'd, and pull'd, she said,
 And by the Friar's lanthorn led ;
 Tells how the drudging goblin sweat, 105
 To earn his cream-bowl duly fet,
 When in one night, ere glimpse of morn,
 His shadowy flail hath thresh'd the corn
 That ten day-labourers could not end,
 Then lies him down the lubbar fiend, 110
 And stretch'd out all the chimney's length,
 Basks at the fire his hairy strength ;
 And crop-full out of doors he flings,
 Ere the first cock his mornin' sings.
 Thus done the tales, to bed they creep, 115
 By whispering winds soon lull'd asleep.
 Towred cities please us then,
 And the busy humm of men,
 Where throngs of knights and barons bold,
 In weeds of peace high triumph hold, 120

SWEET WILLIAM.

BALLAD I.

I.

BY a prattling stream, on a Midsummer's eve,
Where the woodbine and jeff'mine their boughs
interweave,
Fair Flora, I cry'd, to my arbour repair,
For I must have a chaplet for sweet William's hair.

II.

She brought me the vi'let that grows on the hill,
The vale-dwelling lilly, and gilded jonquill :
But such languid odours how cou'd I approve,
Just warm from the lips of the lad that I love.

III.

She brought me, his faith and his truth to display,
The undying myrtle, and ever-green bay :
But why these to me, who've his constancy known?
And Billy has laurels enough of his own.

IV.

The next was a gift that I could not contemn,
For she brought me two roses that grew on a stem :
Of the dear nuptial tie they stood emblems confest,
So I kiss'd 'em, and press'd 'em quite close to my breast.

V. She

V.

She brought me a sun-flow'r---This, fair one's, your due ;
 For it once was a maiden, and love-sick like you :
 Oh ! give it me quick, to my shepherd I'll run,
 As true to his flame, as this flow'r to the sun.

The LASS with the golden Locks.

B A L L A D II.

I.

NO more of my Harriot, of Polly no more,
 Nor all the bright beauties that charm'd me before ;
 My heart for a slave to gay Venus I've sold,
 And barter'd my freedom for ringlets of gold :
 I'll throw down my pipe, and neglect all my flocks,
 And will sing to my lass with the golden locks.

II.

Tho' o'er her white forehead the gilt tresses flow,
 Like the rays of the sun on a hillock of snow ;
 Such painters of old drew the Queen of the Fair,
 'Tis the taste of the antients, 'tis classical hair :
 And tho' witlings may scoff, and tho' raillery mocks,
 Yet I'll sing to my lass with the golden locks.

III.

To live and to love, to converse and be free,
Is loving, my charmer, and living with thee :
Away go the hours in kisses and rhyme,
Spite of all the grave lectures of old father Time ;
A fig for his dials, his watches and clocks,
He's best spent with the lass of the golden locks.

IV.

Thian the swan in the brook she's more dear to my sight,
Her mien is more stately, her breast is more white,
Her sweet lips are rubies, all rubies above,
Which are fit for the language or labour of love ;
At the park in the mall, at the play in the box,
My lass bears the bell with her golden locks.

V.

Her beautiful eyes, as they roll or they flow,
Shall be glad for my joy, or shall weep for my woe ;
She shall ease my fond heart, and shall sooth my soft pain,
While thousands of rivals are fighting in vain ;
Let them rail at the fruit they can't reach, like the fox,
While I have the lass with the golden locks.

MY Florio, wildest of his sex,
 (Who sure the veriest saint wou'd vex)
 From beauty roves to beauty ;
 Yet, tho' abroad the wanton roam,
 Whene'er he deigns to stay at home,
 He always minds his duty.

II.

Something to every charming she,
 In thoughtless prodigality,
 He's granting still and granting,
 To Phyllis that, to Cloe this,
 And every madam, every miss ;
 Yet I find nothing wanting.

III.

If haply I his will displease,
 Tempestuous as th' autumnal seas
 He foams and rages ever ;

But

But when he ceases from his ire,
I cry, such spirit, and such fire,
Is surely wond'rous clever.

IV.

I ne'er want reason to complain;
But sweet is pleasure after pain,
And every joy grows greater.
Then trust me, damsels, whilst I tell,
I should not like him half so well,
If I cou'd make him better.

The TALKATIVE FAIR.

BALLAD IV.

I.

FROM morn to night, from day to day,
At all times and at every place,
You scold, repeat, and sing, and say,
Nor are there hopes, you'll ever cease.

II.

Fobear, my Celia, oh! forbear,
If your own health, or ours you prize;
For all mankind that hear you, swear
Your tongue's more killing than your eyes.

Your tongue's a traytor to your face,
 Your fame's by your own noise obscur'd,
 All are distracted while they gaze ;
 But if they listen, they are cur'd.

 Than all you say, or all I write ;
 One look ten thousand charms displays ;
 Then hush---and be an angel quite.

FROM all her fair loquacious kind,
 So different is my Rosalind,
 That not one accent can I gain
 To crown my hopes, or sooth my pain.

II.

Ye lovers, who can construe sighs,
 And are the interpreters of eyes,
 To language all her looks translate,
 And in her gestures read my fate.

And

III.

And if in them you chance to find
Ought that is gentle, ought that's kind,
Adieu mean hopes of being great,
And all the littleness of state.

All thoughts of grandeur I'll despise,
Which from dependence take their rise ;
To serve her shall be my employ,
And love's sweet agony my joy.

The FORCE of INNOCENCE.

To Miss C.

BALLAD VI.

I.

THE blooming damsel, whose defence
Is adamantine innocence,
Requires no guardian to attend
Her steps, for modesty's her friend:
Tho' her fair arms are weak to wield
The glitt'ring spear, and massy shield ;
Yet safe from force and fraud combin'd,
She is an Amazon in mind.

D d 2

II.

With this artillery she goes,
Not only 'mongst the harmless beaux :
But even unhurt and undismay'd,
Views the long sword and fierce cockade.
Tho' all a syren as she talks,
And all a goddess as she walks,
Yet decency each action guides,
And wisdom o'er her tongue presides.

III.

Place her in Russia's showery plains,
Where a perpetual winter reigns,
The elements may rave and range,
Yet her fix'd mind will never change.
Place her, Ambition, in thy tow'rs,
'Mongst the more dang'rous golden show'rs,
E'en there she'd spurn the venal tribe,
And fold her arms against the bribe.

IV.

Leave her defenceless and alone,
A pris'ner in the torrid zone,
The sunshine there might vainly vie
With the bright lustre of her eye;
But Phœbus' self, with all his fire,
Cou'd ne'er one unchaste thought inspire.
But virtue's path she'd still pursue,
And still, my fair, wou'd copy you.

The DISTRESSED DAMSEL.

B A L L A D VII.

I.

OF all my experience how vast the amount,
 Since fifteen long winters I fairly can count!
 Was ever a damsel so sadly betray'd,
 To live to these years and yet still be a maid ?

II.

Ye heroes triumphant, by land and by sea,
 Sworn vot'ries to love, but undmindful of me ;
 You can storm a strong fort, or can form a blockade,
 Yet ye stand by, like dastards, and see me a maid.

III.

Ye lawyers so just, who with slippery tongue,
 Can do what you please, or with right, or with wrong,
 Can it be, or by law or by equity said,
 That a buxom young girl ought to die an old maid ?

IV.

Ye learned physicians, whose excellent skill
 Can save, or demolish, can cure, or can kill,
 To a poor, forlorn damsel contribute your aid,
 Who is sick --- very sick -- of remaining a maid.

V.

Ye fops, I invoke, not to list to my song,
 Who answer no end --- and to no sex belong;
 Ye echoes of echoes, and shadows of shade ----
 For if I had you ---- I might still be a maid.

The FAIR RECLUSE.

B A L L A D VIII.

I.

YE ancient patriarchs of the wood,
 That veil around these awful glooms,
 Who many a century have stood
 In verdant age, that ever blooms.

II.

Ye Gothic tow'rs, by vapours dense,
 Obscur'd into severer state,
 In pastoral magnificence
 At once so simple and so great.

III.

Why all your jealous shades on me,
 Ye hoary elders do ye spread?
 Fair Innocence shou'd still be free,
 Nought shou'd be chain'd, but what we dread.

IV.

Say, must these tears for ever flow ?

Can I from patience learn content,
While solitude still nurses woe,
And leaves me leisure to lament.

V.

My guardian see !---who wards off peace,
Whose cruelty is his employ,
Who bids the tongue of transport cease,
And stops each avenue to joy ?

VI.

Freedom of air alone is giv'n,
To aggravate, not sooth my grief,
To view th' immensely-distant heav'n,
My nearest prospect of relief.

 All nature vanish’d from my view !
 She seem’d all Nature to comprize,
 Her lips ! her beauteous breasts ! her eyes !
 That rous’d, and yet abash’d desire,
 With liquid, languid, living fire !

III.

But then---her voice!---how fram'd t' endear!
The music of the Gods to hear!
Wit that so pierc'd, without offence,
So brac'd by the strong nerves of sense!
Pallas with Venus play'd her part,
To rob me of an honest heart;
Prudence and Passion jointly strove,
And Reason was th' ally of Love.

IV.

Ah me! thou sweet, delicious maid,
From whence shall I solicit aid?
Hope and despair alike destroy,
One kills with grief, and one with joy.
Celestial Chloris! Nymph divine!
To save me, the dear task be thine.
Tho' conquest be the woman's care,
The angel's glory is to spare.

The PHYSICIAN and the MONKEY.

An EPIGRAM.

ALADY sent lately to one Doctor Drug,
 To come in an instant, and clyster poor Pug—
 As the fair one commanded he came at the word,
 And did the grand office in tie-wig and sword.

The affair being ended, so sweet and so nice !
 He held out his hand with—"You know, ma'am, my " price."
 " Your price," says the lady--- " Why, Sir, he's your
 " brother,
 " And doctors must never take fees of each other."

WHEN Phœbus was am'rous, and long'd to be

 She became a fine laurel to deck the God's hair.

A Bag-wig of a jauntie air,
Trick'd up with all a barber's care,
Loaded with powder and perfume,
Hung in a spendthrift's dressing-room ;
Close by its side, by chance convey'd,
A black Tobacco-pipe was laid ;
And with its vapours far and near,
Outstunk the essence of Monsieur ;
At which its rage, the thing of hair,
Thus, bristling up, began declare.

“ Bak'd dirt ! that with intrusion rude
“ Breaks in upon my solitude,
“ And with thy fetid breath defiles
“ The air for forty thousand miles—

 " O barb'rous English ! horrid Dutch !
 " I cannot bear it---Here, Sue, Nan,
 " Go call the maid to call the man,
 " And bid him come without delay,
 " To take this odious pipe away.
 " Hideous ! sure some one smoak'd thee, Friend,
 " Reversefely, at his t'other end.
 " Oh ! what mix'd odours ! what a throng
 " Of salt and sour, of stale and strong !
 " A most unnatural combination,
 " Enough to mar all perspiration---
 " Monstrous ! again---'twou'd vex a faint !
 " Sufan, the drops---or else I faint !"
 The pipe (for 'twas a pipe of soul)
 Raifing himself upon his bole,
 In smoke, like oracle of old,
 Did thus his sentiments unfold.

" Why, what's the matter, Goodman Swagger,
 " Thou flaunting French, fantastic bragger ?
 " Whose whole fine speech is (with a pox)
 " Ridiculous and heterodox.

 " Before such scoundrels came in fashion,
 " When none sought hair in realms unknown,

CARE and GENEROSITY.

A F A B L E.

OLD Care with Industry and Art,
 At length so well had play'd his Part ;
 He heap'd up such an ample store,
 That Av'rice cou'd not sigh for more :
 Ten thousand flocks his shepherd told,
 His coffers overflow'd with Gold ;
 The land all round him was his own,
 With corn his crouded granaries groan.

In

In short so vast his charge and gain,
That to possess them was a pain;
With happiness oppress'd he lies,
And much too prudent to be wise.
Near him there liv'd a beauteous maid,
With all the charms of youth array'd;
Good, amiable, sincere and free,
Her name was Generosity.
'Twas hers the largesse to bestow
On rich and poor, on friend and foe.
Her doors to all were open'd wide,
The pilgrim there might safe abide:
For th' hungry and the thirsty crew,
The bread she broke, the drink she drew;
There Sickness laid her aching head,
And there Distress cou'd find a bed. ---
Each hour with an all-bounteous hand,
Diffused she blessings round the land:
Her gifts and glory lasted long,
And numerous was th' accepting throng.
At length pale Penury seiz'd the dame,
And Fortune fled, and Ruin came,
She found her riches at an end,
And that she had not made one friend. ---
All cursed her for not giving more,
Nor thought on what she'd done before;

She wept, she rav'd, she tore her hair,
When lo ! to comfort her came Care. ---
And cry'd, my dear, if you will join,
Your hand in nuptial bonds with mine ;
All will be well--you shall have store,
And I be plagu'd with Wealth no more.----
Tho' I restrain your bounteous heart,
You still shall act the generous part. ---
The Bridal came--great was the feast,
And good the pudding and the priest ;
The bride in nine moons brought him forth
A little maid of matchless worth :
Her face was mix'd of Care and Glee,
They christen'd her Oeconomy ;
And styled her fair Discretion's Queen,
The mistress of the golden mean.
Now Generosity confin'd,
Is perfect easy 'in her mind ;
She loves to give, yet knows to spare,
Nor wishes to be free from Care.

AN OCCASIONAL
 PROLOGUE and EPILOGUE
 O T H E L L O,

As it was acted at the Theatre-Royal in Drury-Lane, on Thursday the 7th of March 1751, by Persons of Distinction for their Diverſion.

WHILE mercenary actors tread the ſtage,
 And hireling ſcriblers laſh or lull the age,
 Ours be the taſk t'inſtruct, and entertain,
 Without one thought of glory or of gain.
 Virtue's her own---from no external cauſe---
 She gives, and ſhe demands the Self-applauſe :
 Home to her breſt ſhe brings the heart-felt bays,
 Heedleſs alike of profit, and of praiſe.
 This now perhaps is wrong--yet this we know,
 'Twas ſenſe and truth a century ago :
 When Britain with tranſcendent glory crown'd,
 For high atchievements, as for wit renown'd ;

Cull'd

Cull'd from each growing grace the purest part,
 And cropt the flowers from every blooming art.
 Our noblest youth would then embrace the task
 Of comic humour, or the mystic masque.
 'Twas theirs to incourage worth, and give to bards
 What now is spent in boxing and in cards :
 Good sense their pleasure—Virtue still their guide,
 And English magnanimity—their pride,
 Methinks I see with Fancy's magic eye,
 The shade of Shakespear, in yon azure sky.
 On yon high cloud behold the bard advance,
 Piercing all Nature with a single glance :
 In various attitudes around him stand
 The passions, waiting for his dread command.
 First kneeling Love before his feet appears,
 And musically sighing melts in tears.
 Near him fell Jealousy with fury burns,
 And into storms the amorous breathings turns ;
 Then Hope with heavenward look, and Joy draws near,
 While palsied Terror trembles in the rear.

Such Shakespear's train of horror and delight,
 And such we hope to introduce to-night.
 But if, tho' just in thought, we fail in fact,
 And good intention ripens not to act,
 Weigh our design, your censure still defer,
 When truth's in view 'tis glorious e'en to err.

EPILOGUE.

Spoken by DESDEMONA

TRUE woman to the last--my peroration
 I come to speak in spight of suffocation;
 To shew the present and the age to come,
 We may be choak'd, but never can be dumb.
 Well now methinks I see you all run out,
 And haste away to Lady Bragwell's rout;
 Each modish sentiment to hear and weigh,
 Of those who nothing think, and all things say.
 Prudella first in parody begins,
 (For Nonsense and Buffoonery are twins)
 "Can beaux the court for theatres exchange?
 " I swear by Heaven 'tis strange, 'tis passing strange;
 " And very whimsical, and mighty dull,
 " And pitiful, and wond'rous pitiful:
 " I wish I had not heard it--Blessed dame!
 Whene'er she speaks her audience with the same.
 Next Neddy Nicely--" Fye, O fye, good lack,
 " A nasty man to make his face all black."
 Then Lady Stiffneck shews her pious rage,
 And wonders we shou'd act--upon a stage.

I

" Why,

“ Why, ma’m, says Coquetilla, a disgrace?
“ Merit in any form may shew her face:
“ In this dull age the male things ought to play,
“ To teach them what to do, and what to say.”
In short, they all with different cavils cram us,
And only are unanimous to damn us.
But still there are a fair judicious few,
Who judge unbiass’d, and with candour view;
Who value honesty, tho’ clad in buff,
And wit, tho’ dress’d in an old English ruff.
Behold them here—I beaming sense descry,
Shot from the living lustre of each eye.
Such meaning smiles each blooming face adorn,
As deck the pleasure-painted brow of morn;
And shew the person of each matchless fair,
Tho’ rich to rapture, and above compare,
Is, even with all the skill of heaven design’d,
But an imperfect image of their mind;
While chastity unblemish’d and unbrib’d
Adds a majestic mien that scorns to be describ’d:
Such, we will vaunt, and only such as these,
’Tis our ambition, and our fame to please.

TIMOLUS, MELINOE and AGNO, two Wood-nymphs.

TIMOLUS.

A G N O, To-day we wear our acron crown,
The parsley wreath be thine ; it is most meet
We grace the presence of these rival gods
With all the honours of our woodland weeds.
Thine was the task, Melinoe, to prepare
The turf-built theatre, the boxen bow'r,
And all the sylvan scen'ry.

MELINOE.

That task,
Sire of these shades, is done. On yester eve,
Assisted by a thousand friendly fays,
While fav'ring Dian held her glitt'ring lamp,

We:

We ply'd our nightly toils, nor ply'd we long,
 For Art was not the mistress of our revels,
 'Twas gentle Nature, whom we jointly woo'd;
 She heard, and yielded to the forms we taught her,
 Yet still remain'd herself.-----Simplicity,
 Fair Nature's genuine daughter, was there too,
 So soft, yet so magnificent of mien,
 She shone all ornament without a gem.
 The blithsome Flora, ever sweet and young,
 Offer'd her various store : We cull'd a few
 To robe, and recommend our darksome verdure,
 But shun'd to be luxuriant.-----

TIMOLUS.

It was well.

Agno, thy looks are pensive : What dejects
 Thy pleasure-painted aspect ? Sweetest nymph,
 That ever trod the turf, or sought the shade,
 Speak, nor conceal a thought.

AGNO.

King of the woods,

I tremble for the royal arbiter.
 'Tis hard to judge, whene'er the great contend,
 Sure to displease the vanquish'd : When such pow'rs
 Contest the laurel with such ardent strife,
 'Tis not the sentence of fair equity,
 But 'tis their pleasure that is right or wrong.

TIMOLUS.

TRIMOLUS.

'Tis well remark'd, and on experience founded.
 I do remember that my sister Ida
 (Whenas on her own shadowy mount we met,
 To celebrate the birth-day of the Spring,
 And th' orgies of the May) wou'd oft recount
 The rage of the indignant goddesses,
 When shepherd Paris to the Cyprian queen,
 With hand obsequious gave the golden toy.
 Heav'n's queen, the sister and the wife of Jove,
 Rag'd like a feeble mortal; fall'n she seem'd,
 Her deity in human passions lost :
 Ev'n Wisdom's goddess, jealous of her form,
 Deem'd her own attribute her second virtue.
 Both vow'd and sought revenge.

AGNO.

If such the fate
 Of him who judg'd aright, what must be his
 Who shall mistake the cause? for much I doubt
 The skill of Midas, since his fatal wish :
 Which Bacchus heard, and curs'd him with the gift.
 Yet grant him wise, to err is human still,
 And mortal is the consequence.

MELINOR.

Most true.

Besides, I fear him partial; for with Pan

In aukward gambols he affects to dance,
Or tumbles to the tabor--'tis not likely
That such an umpire shou'd be equitable,
Unless he gues at justice.

TIMOLUS.

Soft---no more----

'Tis ours to wish for Pan, and fear from Phœbus,
Whose near approach I hear : Ye stately cedars
Forth from your summits bow your awful heads,
And reverence the gods. Let my whole mountain tremble,
Not with a fearful, but religious awe,
And holiness of horror. You, ye winds,
That make soft, solemn music 'mongst the leaves,
Be all to stillness hush'd ; and thou their echo
Listen, and hold thy peace ; for see they come.

SCENE opens, and discovers Apollo, attended by Clio and Melpomene, on the right hand of Midas, and Pan on the left, whom Timolus, with Agno and Melinoe, join.

MIDAS.

Begin, celestial candidates for praise,
Begin the tuneful contest : I, mean while,

With heedful notice and attention meet,
Will weigh your merits, and decide your cause,

APOLLO.

From Jove begin the rapturous song,
To him our earliest lays belong,
We are his offspring all ;
'Twas he, whose looks supremely bright,
Smil'd darksome chaos into light,
And fram'd this glorious ball.

PAN.

Sylvanus, in his shadowy grove,
The seat of rural peace and love,
Attends my Doric lays ;
By th' altar on the myrtle mount,
Where plays the wood-nymph's favourite fount,
I'll celebrate his praise.

CLIO.

Parnassus, where's thy boasted height,
Where, Pegasus, thy fire and flight,
Where all your thoughts so bold and free,
Ye daughters of Mnemosyne ?
If Pan o'er Phœbus can prevail,
And the great god of verse shou'd fail ?

AGNO.

From nature's works, and nature's laws,
We find delight, and seek applause ;

The prattling streams and zephyrs bland,
 And fragrant flow'rs by zephyrs fann'd,
 The level lawns and buxom bow'rs,
 Speak Nature and her works are ours.

MELPOMENE.

What were all your fragrant bow'rs,
 Splendid days, and happy hours,
 Spring's verdant robe, fair Flora's blush,
 And all the poets of the bush?
 What the paintings of the grove,
 Rural music, mirth and love?
 Life and ev'ry joy wou'd pall,
 If Phœbus shone not on you all.

MELINOR.

We chant to Phœbus, king of day,
 The morning and the evening lay.
 But Pan, each satyre, nymph and fawn,
 Adore as laureat of the lawn;
 From peevish March to joyous June
 He keeps our restless souls in tune,
 Without his oaten reed and song,
 Phœbus, thy days wou'd seem too long.

APOLLO.

Am I not he, who prescious from on high,
 Sends a long look thro' all futurity?
 Am I not he, to whom alone belong
 The powers of Med'cine, Melody and Song?

Diffusely

The JUDGMENT of MIDAS.

229

Diffusely lib'ral, as divinely bright,
Eye of the universe and fire of light.

PAN.

O'er cots and vales, and every shepherd swain,
Inpeaceable pre-eminence I reign;
With pipe on plain, and nymph in secret grove,
The day is music, and the night is love.
I blest with these, nor envy nor desire
Thy gaudy chariot, or thy golden lyre.

CLIO.

Soon as the dawn dispels the dark,
Illustrious Phœbus 'gins t' appear,
Proclaimed by the herald lark,
And ever-wakeful chanticleer,
The Persian pays his morning vow,
And all the turban'd easterns bow.

AGNO.

Soon as the evening shades advance,
And the gilt glow-worn glitters fair,
For rustic gambol, gibe and dance,
Fawns, nymphs and dryads all prepare,
Pan shall his swains from toil relieve,
And rule the revels of the eve.

MELPOMENE.

In numbers as smooth as Callirhoe's stream,
Glide the silver-ton'd verse when Apollo's the theme;
While

The JUDGMENT OF MIDAS.

While on his own mount Cyparissus is seen,
And Daphne preserves her immutable green.
We'll hail Hyperion with transport so long,
Th' inventor, the patron, and subject of song.

MELINOE.

While on the calm ocean the Halcyon shall breed,
And Syrinx shall sigh with her musical reed,
While fairies, and satyres, and fawns shall approve
The music, the mirth, and the life of the grove,
So long shall our Pan be than thee more divine,
For he shall be rising when thou shalt decline.

MIDAS.

No more——To Pan and to his beauteous nymphs
I do adjudge the prize, as is most due.

Enter two Satyres, and crown MIDAS with a pair of ass's ears

APOLLO.

Such rural honours all the gods decree,
To those who sing like Pan, and judge like thee.

[Exeunt Omnes.]
